Motorcycle run supports women's shelter

By JULIE MURPHY
jmurphy@lakelandmedia.com

While it's always fun to get together with a group of like-minded motorcycle enthusiasts and take a ride, joining a group leaving out of KC's Cabin at the intersection of Wilmot Road and Route 173 on Sept. 19 supports a worthy cause.

This is the third year that KC's Cabin has held a charity-benefit motorcycle run. Proceeds will support the Mother Teresa Home in Antioch, though providing service to both Antioch and Lake Villa townships.

The Mother Teresa Home is a home for women and children who are experiencing "extraordinary life situations," and who find themselves homeless.

"Nearly everything has been donated so all of the money will go to this organization," said Marytherese Ambacher, director of the Mother Teresa Home and co-director, under the umbrella of Open Arms Mission (Scott Keenan, director).

The $20 entry fee includes the 90-mile ride, a pasta dinner catered by DiMarco's restaurant at the ending point on the grounds of St. Peter School, and a chance at winning $200-500 cash. Additionally, there will be live entertainment for dining enjoyment.

Keenan said, "DiMarco's has always provided a delicious meal for this ride."

Registration, complete with coffee and donuts, begins at 10 a.m. followed by the motorcycle blessing at 11:15 a.m. The ride leaves at 11:30 a.m. with riders expected to reach the final destination by 4 p.m.

For rider comfort, four stops are scheduled along the route with a police escort.

Non-riders are welcome to participate at the benefit dinner, cash raffle and live music also available for $20.

Ambacher said this is an important fundraiser for the Mother Teresa Home, as the sensitive nature of the organization requires that it maintain a low profile. "Word of mouth and information provided through the Open Arms Mission lets those in need know where they can go for help," she said.

An additional raffle for a Las Vegas trip of four days and three nights that includes airfare with no restrictions is being held in conjunction with the motorcycle run. All contributions are tax-deductible to the full extent allowable by law. Tickets are $1 each or six for $5.

"Our goal is to double what we did last year and raise $20K," Ambacher said. "That would take care of the operations for the house for the year so that anything that comes in would be extra funds for counselling for the children."

Those interested in participating are encouraged to purchase tickets in advance, though it is not mandatory. Tickets can be purchased at KC's Cabin, 815-675-2205; Open Arms Mission, 847-395-0309; or through Keenan, 847-254-5251.

Osmond hosts expo for seniors

By JULIE MURPHY
jmurphy@lakelandmedia.com

Assisted living, identity theft and prescription drugs are just some of the topics that will be addressed at the Senior Expo held at the Antioch-Lake Villa Township Center on Aug. 17 from 9 a.m.-noon, and sponsored by Rep. JoAnn Osmond (R-Antioch).

"This is the second year we're doing this," Osmond said. "Last year's was very well attended. This is a good way to get a lot of information to those who need it."

Osmond said the setting would be informal with booths of representatives from the Department of Motor Vehicles and the Illinois State Treasurer's office as well as those who cater to assisted living, hospitals and nursing homes.

She said, "This is a good opportunity to questions answered. It's a place where families caring for a senior can come for information as well."

State Treasurer Judy Baar Topinka's office will provide information on avoiding financial fraud, scams and identity theft. Reverse mortgages, the use of direct deposit and other programs offered will also be explained.

"There will also be a Dash for Cash," Osmond said. "That's the program where you can check to see if there is any unclaimed money in your name."

Representatives from Abbott Labs will discuss prescription drugs, and the Arthritis Foundation will discuss living with the condition.

Osmond said there is no cost to attend or registration required to attend.

"I think we're even going to have donuts available," she said.

The Antioch-Lake Villa Township Center is located on the east side of Deep Lake Road, north of Grass Lake Road.

Cong. Am Echod to carry Torah in procession to new temple in Lindenhurst

By BRENDA BALIN
balin@lakelandmedia.com

Lake County's oldest Jewish congregation begins a new chapter in its history on Sunday, Aug. 15, at 1:30 p.m.

At that time, Congregation Am Echod (Reform) will dedicate its new temple building at 2945 Falling Waters Blvd., Lindenhurst, west of Route 45, 1 mile north of Route 132 (Grand Avenue).

A unique aspect of the dedication is that the Torah will be moved in a procession from the old Waukegan location, at Sunset and Yeoman Avenue, to the new Lindenhurst synagogue.

A model of the "Ark of the Covenant," the historic vessel in which Moses is supposed to have placed the Ten Commandments, has been constructed to move the Torah.

"The procession is an exciting idea based on the journey the Israelites took out of Egypt," said Rabbi Ze'ev Harari, the congregation's spiritual leader.

Congregation member Al Fuchs built the replica ark. It will be placed in the smaller of the new temple's two sanctuaries.

"We will be moving all three Torah scrolls," Harari said. He

'The procession is an exciting idea based on the journey the Israelites took out of Egypt'

Rabbi Ze'ev Harari

explained that two of the three are from Europe, and probably are about as old as the congregation itself.

The original temple, founded 108 years ago in Waukegan, was Orthodox. The congregation's history includes a number of notable Waukegan-area families, including Jack Benny's father, Meyer Kubelsky, who was a founding member.

In the mid-1990s, the congregation noticed a population shift, as older members of the congregation were becoming the majority, and younger families were locating to the west, in the communities of Lindenhurst, Grayslake and Gurnee.

At that time, a satellite congregational home was established in a building behind the Waterford Commons strip mall, off Grass Lake Road.

A year before the congregation broke ground for the new temple, a decision was made to change from Conservative affiliation to Reform, reflecting evolving demographics of younger, more modern families. For more information about Congregation Am Echod, call 847-336-9110.

Antioch home of VFW All-American commanders

Antioch VFW Sequoit Post 4551 is home of All-American Post Commander Bill Oerly.

Oerly will be officially recognized at the 105th annual VFW National Convention in Cincinnati that is being held Aug. 14-20.

VFW Commander-in-Chief Edward Banas, said, "Oerly, commander of Post 4551 in Antioch, is one of only 115 VFW Post Commanders worldwide selected for the All-American post commander."

Criteria for the honor includes outstanding achievement in membership growth, Buddy Poppy sales and participation in other VFW programs that benefit veterans and their communities.

Banas said the title is one of the most prestigious honors given.

Oerly, who was also honored as All-State commander, said he finished third in the world for his post size (200-300 members).

Ironically, Oerly, a Lake Villa resident, will receive the award with Antioch resident Ray Henry who is All-American commander of Lake Villa Post 4308.

Congratulations to both.

again, there are several students who received either scholarships or honors for this past school year.

Rep. JoAnn Osmond (R-Antioch) congratulates Michael Addison, Jamie Knuth and Jennifer Buhrmester. These three students were awarded one-year scholarships from the General Assembly for the 61st legislative district to state supported universities.

Knuth made the dean's list this past spring at Northern Illinois University.

Zachary Pratt, a biochemistry major about to begin his senior year at North Central College in Naperville, has been awarded the 2004-05 Barry M. Goldwater Scholarship for science and mathematics.

Lauren Thurlwell is the recipient of a $1,000 scholarship award from the Baxter International Foundation. She was reportedly selected from over 300 applicants on the basis of academic records and personal achievements.

Finally, Andrew Elsen, scheduled to graduate in 2005 from Lake Forest College, participated in the school's seventh annual student symposium. He presented a research project titled "Authoritarian Rule in Chile and South Korea: Exploring the Social Costs of Economic Development in a Cold War World."

Additionally, he received the Maria Velez de Berliner Spanish Essay Award for his creativity and proficiency in Spanish.

Don't be surprised if you see Elvis out and about as he'll be in town for the FridayFest classic car show and Retrorockets concert.

The cars will be cruisin' from 6-6:30 p.m. with the show beginning at 6:30 back by the Brooks Memorial Wetland and Entertainment Center. Retrorockets take the stage at 7:30 p.m.

those two names may not seem to go together, but those are the two I've liked the best," she said.

Paul Howard, director of the Antioch Senior Center and friend of Brown's the 20 years he's worked there, said he's not surprised by her non-partisan answer.

"The beauty of Florence is that she's an idea person," he said. "She's been on the Senior Council the whole time I've been here and her ideas are probably the most valuable thing she does. She has at least one new thing for us to discuss at every meeting."

Brown has served on the Senior Council for 25 years. She, along with Howard, set up the pinochle tournaments held weekly at the center 20 years ago. When she's at the center, she says grace before meals.

In honor of her 100th birthday, a party is being held at the Antioch Senior Center on Aug. 21.

"My daughter (Elaine Grant) has raised the two nicest boys you could ever meet (Steven and Douglas)," Brown said. "My grandsons are the instigators of this whole thing."

Brown said she's had a great life because of her family and friends.

She said, "I couldn't have visualized that I would have outlived my husband and most of my family, but I have a great life. All my friends, especially my guardian angel Joanie Mitchell really make all the difference."

Well-wishers may send cards to Brown in care of the center, Antioch Senior Center, 817 Holbek St., Antioch, IL 60002.

not expected until 2005 either and tanks will be used in the interim to collect waste.

To the GLP's contention that it is not for lack of effort that sewer and road improvements haven't been completed, board member Tom Baba said, "Personally, I'm losing patience with all these promissory statements."

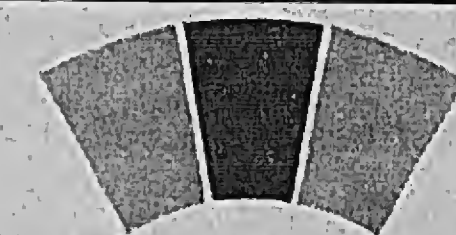

While board member Brad Ipsen questioned whether water detention areas on the lot would be adequate to protect the Red Wing Slough and Little Silver Lake, resident James Sheehan questioned how two eight-foot deep ponds could hold the water displaced by covering "sponge like" property with impervious service.

"I'm concerned with water quantity not just quality. I'm worried that my property will flood. At the end of the day, who is going to be responsible for that," he said. "I would like water retention. If it's their water, then let them keep it; I don't want it in my basement."

Sheehan said his property had never flooded in the 10 years he has lived there, not even four years ago when there was a "true" water event.

He said, "This water is going to come right into Little Silver Lake. Take care of the quantity, and it doesn't matter what the quality."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Keep kids first

I am writing in regards to your feature article about Mr. (Earl) Bush and his check off system at Antioch Upper Grade School. I understand that this was a feature article, which only gave his perspective of his check off system; however, there is a very negative side to his system that needs to be made known.

Antioch School District stands on the premise of "Keeping Kids First" and Mr. Bush's program fails at doing this. My son was in his Junior Band program at AUGS this past year. He worked very hard at doing his best, however, his best never allowed him to be in a concert at the school or the Band-A-Rama held at the Antioch High School.

It is a misunderstanding that with Mr. Bush's program that any student that works hard enough can get checked off. The unfortunate part of this is that not all students that work hard are given the same opportunity as other students to be checked off. This was apparent to us this past year. After only two check offs with Mr. Bush our son was told, five weeks prior to the concert, that he was not good enough to be in the concert. He could no longer work hard and try to get checked off.

Before the second concert and Band-A-Rama my wife made several attempts to talk to Mr. Bush about a situation that our son was encountering which was having a great impact on his life. Mr. Bush never had the time to speak to her and did his best to avoid and ignore requests to speak to him. Not only were we moving during this time, but his grandfather, who is very close to our son, was critically ill and in intensive care fighting for his life. For the second time, after only two check offs our son was told he was not good enough to be in the concert.

We later found out that another parent had sent a letter requesting an additional check off for her child because they had moved and was granted this request. Our son found out about this and couldn't understand why his situation was different except that she did not have a very sick grandpa.

Our son had always dreamed of being in Band-A-Rama at the High School to be able to play with his older sister. He had the song checked off that was being played at Band-A-Rama, however, since he didn't have the other songs that were played in the concert he was still not able to play in Band-A-Rama. This was a huge crush to a twelve-year-old child. During such a difficult time he had worked very hard to be able to do this.

Our son is not alone when it comes to children that are not allowed to be in performances. There are a number of students in the same situation as our son.

I do agree that Antioch Upper Grade Bands sound great; however, the bands that you hear are not representative of Antioch Upper Grade Bands, when you are excluding part of the actual band. I can understand if concerts or Band-A-Rama were competitions, but they are not. They are a time for a child to demonstrate to their parents what they have learned and a time for them to be proud of what they have accomplished.

The idea of listening to each child individually is a wonderful idea, however, each child needs to be given the same number of check offs. I am not stating that the standards need to be lowered I am stating that each child be given the same opportunity.

Also, it is important to realize that concerts are not competitions. Having your best students play at competitions is understandable, but using concerts as competitions does not "Keep Kids First."

Defending a caring educator

I have been teaching private flute for over 27 years and have had more than 200 Solo Ensemble Contest Winners in both IGSA and IHSA, many of whom have gone through the Antioch Upper Grade School Band as part of their music education. Without solicitation, I am taking it upon myself to write this letter in support of Earl Bush, Antioch Upper Grade School band director and his "check-off" system.

Although I did not meet Mr. Bush until I had been teaching his students (among many other band director's students) for several years, I found such excellence and attention to detail, real affection and support of his students that I was moved to begin volunteering at the Antioch Upper Grade School. I have been volunteering in the AUGS music program now for over 3 years now and continue to see what I felt I knew from the very beginning...a caring, highly efficient, artistic music educator of the highest level.

The politics involved in this matter really aren't about the kids, but about the personalities involved. Since I have experience with many students from many school districts over the years, and no bias involving children of my own, I might be a fresh viewpoint.

I become sad when teaching becomes controversial and seemingly petty. The curriculum has been set forth and student contracts signed by parents. The check-off system is part of that agreement, along with practice, attendance, behavior and participation standards.

Without direct accountability most students would do less, not more. A band that includes everyone in spite of preparation, may sound harmless until you consider that it is a step off into lowering standards overall.

Imagine a football team that would do this, giving all equal playing time, or allowing just anyone to be the lead in a school play. It sounds ridiculous because it is.

Every student needs to hear the "best" they can do instead of "good enough." Even one bad player can dishearten a group that is doing an important performance.

In the all-included football team who would win? Would anyone win? Eventually would the excellent quit? Maybe, maybe not. I have never seen such a team. But I am sure the standard of "trying" would change.

I worry about the kids, just the kids and the final outcome. The excellent need a voice too.

Let's not just lower standards to make the less motivated, less tenacious or less talented happy. Let's make as many kids happy and motivated as possible.

Earl Bush is a great band director and expects a lot from his kids, but no more than he should. The preparation process is thorough including rehearsals, practice sheets and private instruction. I believe the demands are very reasonable, agreed on early in the year and no more than he gives each student in the community.

The fortunate students who have gone through this program have excelled in all areas of music and academics. The tenacity and care that goes into their performances and the process of learning carries over into other areas of their lives.

I must say that the combination of musical ability, leadership and skill that Mr. Bush has shown through his teaching is so far above the norm that I am inspired in my own teaching and mentoring.

Sincerely,
Ellen Aleshire, M.M.
Antioch
Flutist, Composer and Music Theorist

Bush teaches children responsibility

As a former student of Mr. Earl Bush, I find it distressing that his teaching methods, the results of which have brought no small amount of recognition and pride to Antioch Upper Grade (i.e. the premier of the Robert Sheldon piece), are being called so virulently into question. I support the check-off system because I experienced first hand its positive results.

I became a better instrumentalist, because the fear of not playing in the concert was incredibly motivating. I could also see the improvement in myself. Each time check-offs came around, I needed fewer and fewer sessions. I also saw the improvement in the band as a whole.

Confidence, morale and pride were very high after Contest. For two of my three years at Upper Grade the Senior Band received Superior Firsts, the highest rating at Contest. One year it received only one point off of a Superior, which just encouraged the band to work harder for the Superior. I doubt that would have been possible if the check-off system had not been in place.

The check-off system provides an effort-reward form of accountability: if a child decides not to put forth the effort to learn his music, he does not get checked-off and does not play in the concert. This is a real world concept. If one does not do his work in the business world, one gets fired.

Mr. Bush always gives students ample time to get checked-off. He gives up his afternoons, nights, and weekends to make sure all of the students have enough time. Nine to five workdays are non-existent for him.

Sign-up sheets are always posted in the same place, and deadlines are always specified. Yet students will still wait until the last minute to sign up, or will blow off a time they have signed up for. Then, they and their parents have the temerity to whine when the student doesn't get checked-off. The blame lies squarely on the student, not on Mr. Bush.

The ONLY thing he is guilty of is trying to teach children responsibility. He deserves respect, not attacks on a system that works.

PM&amp;L hosts encore of "Love Letters"

PM&L Theatre is hosting a special two-day encore engagement of its production of "Love Letters," by A.R. Gurney. The two show times will be at 8 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 14 and at 2:30 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 15.

Tom Hausman directs Christine Heiligst, of Salem, Wis., and Lou Jones, of Round Lake, as the actors read letters aloud to each other.

"Love Letters" is a charming love story," said Betty Smouse, publicity director. "What is created is an evocative, touching, frequently funny, but always telling, pair of character studies in which what is implied is as revealing and meaningful as what is actually written down."

Smouse said the characters, both born to wealth and position, are childhood friends whose lifelong correspondence begins with birthday party thank-you notes, summer camp postcards and notes in school.

"Throughout the correspondence, it is eloquently clear how much they meant to each other over the years," she said. "Physically apart, perhaps, but spiritually as close as only true lovers can be."

Tickets are $10. Reservations can be made, beginning on Aug. 9, by calling 847-395-3055.

FNBEO raises $4,400 for American Cancer Society

First National Bank-Employee Owned joined the American Cancer Society's first annual Relay for Life Antioch on Saturday and collected $4,400 in donations.

The amount collected earned the team the honor of becoming a Silver Club member, as it raised the most money of any team participating in the event.

The all-night walkathon, which took place on the football field and track at Antioch Community High School, raised money and awareness of a disease that is the second leading cause of death in the United States. At the closing ceremonies, it was announced that a total of $53K had been raised.

"I think the most touching point in the evening was the luminaria ceremony. Teams helped light luminarias to honor and remember those touched by cancer. The entire track was lit up; it was unbelievable," said Karen Kubin, Team FNBE member.

FNBE began putting a team together in February when the Bank's President Ted Axton sent out an e-mail to let employees know about the event. He immediately got a response from employees Amy Willemarck and Carri Stobaugh who decided to co-lead the event and put a team together.

"I thought that there would be no better way to show my support to the survivors, caregivers and families of cancer than by being such an important part of this fundraising event," Stobaugh said.

Stobaugh and Willemarck got over fifteen employees and family members to participate and hope to have two teams put together for next year's relay.

"We look forward to participating next year with the hopes of forming 2 teams with a new goal of becoming Gold Club Members ($5,000 funds raised)," Stobaugh said.

Money raised at for the American Cancer Society goes towards education, patient services and support, advocacy and research. For more information on American Cancer Society's or other local Relay for Life Events call the Lake County ACS Office at 847-317-0025.

A drop-in group will be offered on Friday mornings at 10 a.m. Registration is not necessary for this program.

With business finished, Carmel's back for more

By ROB BACKUS
rbackus@lakelandmedia.com

With the "unfinished business" from last year now completed, Carmel coach Andy Bitto now wants his players to forget about the success of last year's Class 6A state champions.

"The farther away we can get from last year, the better," Bitto said.

Bitto knows this is a completely different team from last year's squad that flat out dominated the opposition. But that's not to say that another state title isn't a goal for this year's squad.

"The bar has been raised for us," Bitto said. "Any time you win state, you want to win it every year. And it's a realistic goal this year."

He also knows that his team won't blow away the opposition like they did last year, as the '03 Corsairs won by an average score of 43-15, including a memorable 54-26 win over Bloomington in the 6A title game.

"We won't be as dominant as we were last year," Bitto said. "We're going to have to win close games occasionally."

But according to Bitto, that isn't necessarily a bad thing.

"I think this season is going to be more fun than last year," Bitto said. "I'm going to have to coach more and make sure our practices are precise. And we need to get the kids in right spots."

One of those players, junior John Solan, has been moved from quarterback, where he started in the state title game after the injury to Mark Venegoni, to defensive back.

However, several players are back from that squad, so Bitto knows exactly what he's getting.

Running backs Steve Hironimus and Darren Davis, who combined for over 1,200 yards last season, will shoulder the load in the backfield. Sophomore fullback Jimmy Potempa will also get his share of carries.

"He's potentially the best fullback we've ever had," Bitto said.

Round Lake transfer Scott Yingling is penciled in to take the snaps at quarterback.

"He's so fast, he's like another back in the backfield," Bitto said. "But Tyler Ankney is right on his heels."

Eddie Adamski and Paul Lyons are back to lead an offensive line that was arguably the best in the state last season.

All of those factors leave Bitto confident in his offense.

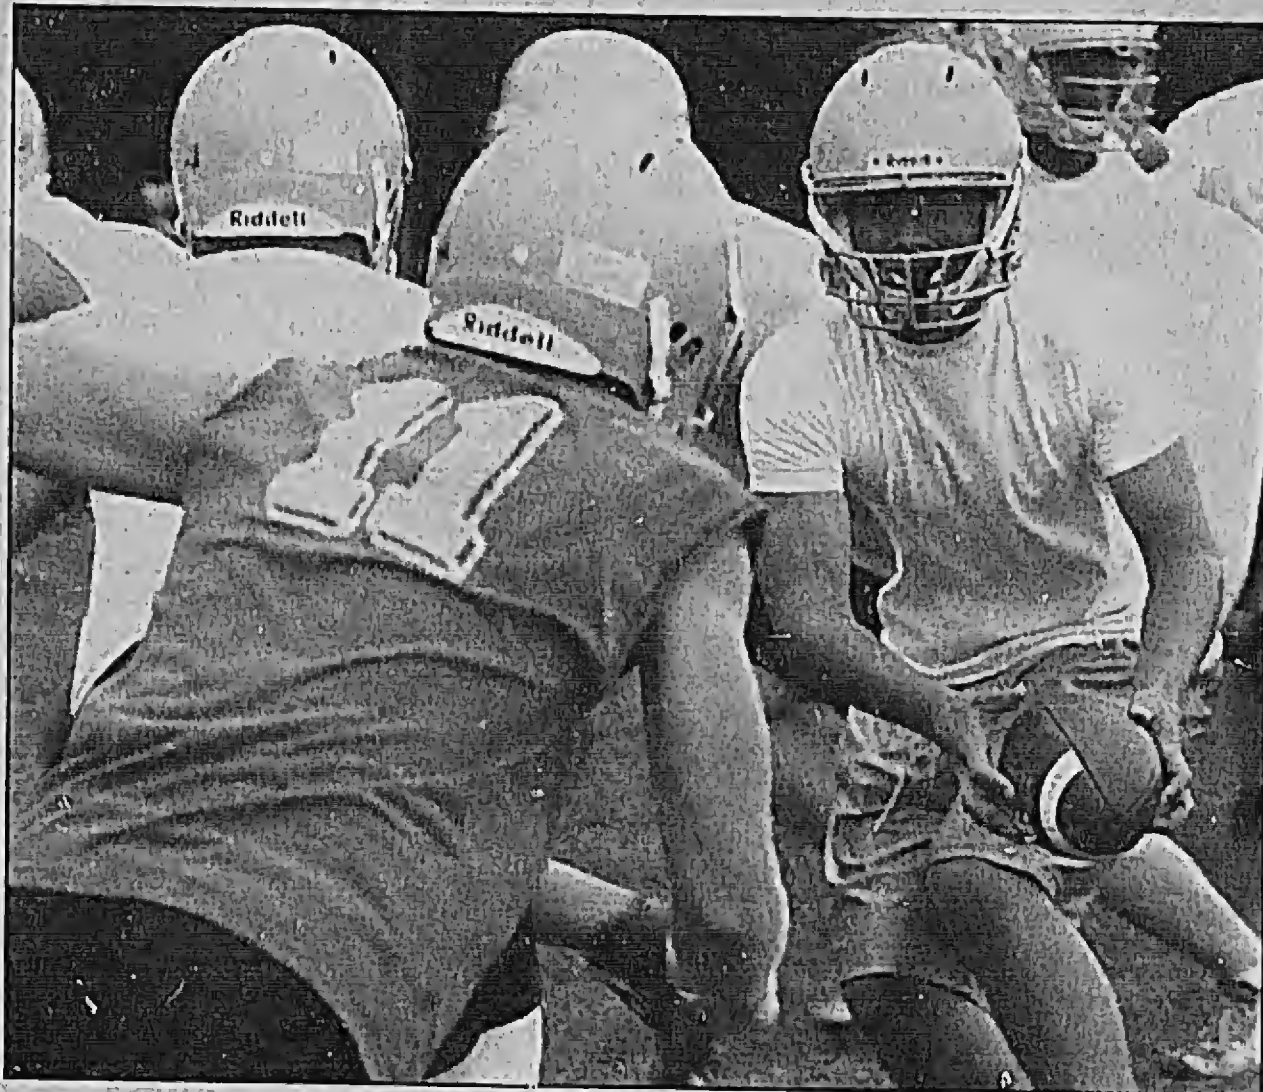

"We can score 35-40 points per game if we stay healthy," Bitto said.

Defensive lineman Luis Cuevas and linebacker Sean Murnane are back to lead the front seven, which should be the strength of the defense.

"The pass rush is supposed to help the pass defense and we don't lose to teams that throw," Bitto said.

All of those factors leave Bitto confident in his team's chances this season.

Carmel will take step one in its quest for back-to-back state titles when it hosts Marian Catholic on Aug. 27.

Bandits let opportunities slip away at tourney

rbackus@lakelandmedia.com

After the Libertyville Bandits rolled through the District 10 playoffs last week, head coach Larry Short thought that his team had left its problems from earlier in the summer—like errors, walks and runners left on base—behind. He was wrong.

Advancing to the state American Legion Tournament for the fourth time in six years, Short had high hopes going in.

However, Libertyville's first game against Wilmette would get off to an inauspicious beginning.

Despite giving up just one bunt hit in the first inning, Bandits pitcher Ryan Schwerman was touched up for four runs in the opening frame. Schwerman gave up just a pair of hits in 5 2/3 innings, but eight walks, a hit batter and some costly errors led to five runs for the Waves.

"We just gave too many runs away," Short said. "And we didn't capitalize on situations."

The Bandits did manage one offensive outburst, scoring five runs in the 6th inning and tying the game on a two-run double from Brandon Ziemann (4-for-5, 3 doubles, 3 RBI, 2 runs scored). But the Waves stormed right back with five runs in the 7th and three more in the 8th to put the game out of reach.

Libertyville added a pair of runs in the 7th and 8th innings, but fell to Wilmette 13-9.

Despite outhitting the Waves 13-8 in the contest, the Bandits failed several times to capitalize on scoring opportunities.

The team left two runners on in the 6th, and the bases loaded in the 7th and 8th innings, leaving an astounding 16 runners on base against the Waves.

"We just couldn't get the key hit and we have them too many free bases," Short said. "It was kind of distressing because we played so well the week before."

Mike Serio (2-for-3, 2 RBI) and Jason Acevedo (3-for-4, RBI) were the other bright spots at the plate for the Bandits.

Libertyville would miss Serio's bat the next game as the Carmel grad was forced to sit out after re-aggravating a back injury.

Without Serio's bat in the lineup, and with Ziemann putting up an 0-for-5 day, the Bandits managed just five runs in an 8-5 loss to Palatine on Friday.

And once again Libertyville found itself behind early as the Blue

Jays tagged Sean Danahy for a 3-run homer in the 1st to take an early lead.

Danahy was touched up for two more runs before leaving after five innings. His replacement, Joe Harrington, gave up three more runs.

However, the Bandits did attempt a comeback, scoring two runs in the 5th, one in the 6th off a solo homer from Steve Hironimus, and two more runs in the 7th to close to 7-5.

With the bases loaded in the 7th, Brett Lancaster stepped up and drilled a shot down the left field line that could have cleared the bases and give Libertyville the lead. But the shot was just foul by inches and Lancaster then proceeded to pop up to end the inning and the threat.

The team also had the bases loaded in the 8th and two on in the 9th but failed to score. In the game, Libertyville left 15 runners on base.

"It's all about missed opportunities," Short said. "If only that Hironimus homer could have come the next inning when we had the bases loaded."

Kyle Bruett (2-for-4, RBI) and Nate Rittenberry (2-for-4, RBI, run scored) were the stars at the plate for Libertyville, which ended the summer with a 31-11 record.

Grayslake hopes defense leads team back to playoffs

By ROB BACKUS
rbackus@lakelandmedia.com

One season after earning the first playoff victory in school history with a 30-7 win over Zion-Benton, Grayslake coach Vito Andriola is hoping for a similar showing from his team this season.

Last year's team was built around defense, and it worked, as the Rams allowed a scant eight points per game on their way to an 8-3 season and a 6-2 mark in the tough Fox Valley Conference.

"Defense first is always our philosophy," Andriola said. "It wins games."

Although the Rams lost several players from last year's punishing defensive unit, the leader of that defense, linebacker Doug Hanson, is back and looking for more.

Hanson finished last season with 75.5 tackles, including 10 tackles for loss, and also had four interceptions, 4 fumble recoveries and a sack and was named Lakeland's Co-Defensive Player of the Year, along with now graduated Carmel defensive back Pat Kimener.

"We're expecting big things from Doug," Andriola said. "He's a winner, he plays like I want everyone to play. He does his best all the time and he's not a 'me' person."

The Rams also expect big things from Brian Centella, both offensively and defensively. Centella gained over 50 yards rushing and ran for several scores last year, in addition to picking off several passes in the defensive backfield.

The backfield will also include Brett Miller and sophomore quarterback Evan Jones.

"We're a ball-control offense and our backs could be the best we've ever had," Andriola said. "We may even throw the ball a bit more, but we don't like to have to throw the ball."

Brian Campbell and Steve Beverley also return with three years of varsity experience under their belts, but Andriola knows this is a different team.

"We were a veteran team last year and we won't be this year," Andriola said. "We're going to start five or six sophomores. But we've gotten better throughout the summer. We're starting to get the attitude back."

As always, Andriola is hoping for a return trip to the playoffs, something Grayslake has never accomplished. And several things will have to happen if the Rams are to achieve that goal.

"We have to limit our mistakes and not beat ourselves," Andriola said. "Our defense gives people problems so we have to move the ball and put some points on the board."

The Rams will open the season with a game against Lake Zurich on Aug. 27.

Illinois Hoopstars complete summer 3-peat

The Illinois HoopStars 7th grade boys blue team, based in Gurnee, made it three championships in a row when they placed first at two recent national basketball tournaments.

Their first championship came in the For The Game regional tournament held July 10-11 at the University of Wisconsin-Parkside. The HoopStars, playing in the 8th grade bracket, beat Lake Geneva 44-35 in the first playoff game and in game two the HoopStars knocked off the Waukegan Blazers 53-47. The HoopStars topped the Bulldogs of southern Lake County 52-44 to secure the championship.

Building on this victory, the team captured their second title at the American Youth Basketball Tour National Tournament held July 18-21 at Indiana University, located in Bloomington, Ind.

The tournament hosted teams from Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Missouri and Canada. In the first playoff game, the HoopStars beat the Lafayette (Indiana) Northstars 43-37. Playing the undefeated Muskegon (Michigan) Allstars for the championship, the HoopStars rallied in the second half to overcome their opponents 54-47.

At the For The Game National Championship, held at the Libertyville Sports Complex July 23-25, the team was once again victorious, compiling a 10-1 record during the tournament.

Team members include Brandon Paul, James Poliquin, Ryan Maguire, Scott Dehnke, Michael Broclous, David Duncan, Jake Anderson, Chandler Watson and Adrian DeJesus and are coached by Lynda Paul.

Landon Santi and Jeff Kemp joined the team for the third championship game.

The teams played 35 games and participated in seven tournaments throughout the spring and summer 2004 season.

The in-house season will run from Sept.

Wait long enough and everything comes back into style. No longer a hobby for the retired and elderly, fiber-related arts such as knitting and crocheting are experiencing a resurgence in popularity.

"Interweave Knits" magazine polled its readers and found that there are as many knitters in the 28-49 year old age bracket, 28 percent, as there are in the over 62 year old age bracket. It's demographics show the majority of interest coming from those between 50-61 years (38 percent).

Additionally, 86 percent of knitters have a college level or higher educational background and 56 percent work in professional technology. Over seven percent are male.

Penny and Rob Cetner opened Wool, Warp and Wheel less than a year ago and said their experience has been similar. The combination fiber arts studio and related shop located in Richmond typically conducts three classes per week and hosts an open workshop on Sundays in which fiber artists gather to work on projects in the company of other enthusiasts.

"A large percentage of the people who come in, both for classes and to shop, are professional people," Penny said. "I think they find it's a great way to relieve stress."

Class sizes are limited based on subject matter and equipment required.

"We want all of our students to be successful," Rob said. "When we bought our shop we had a list of things we wanted including stone walls and working fireplace. We want our place to be welcoming. It's a place for encouragement and rest."

In addition to teaching knitting and crocheting, both at beginning and advanced levels, the Cetners offer classes in felting, spinning (on a wheel and drop spindle), rug braiding and weaving on a loom.

The business began as a Civil War sutlery at area reenactments and grew from there. Rob was the itinerant weaver.

He said, "We started selling things we made in the tent, and then we got a bigger tent. Everything has to be 'period' so we would do everything (spin, weave, knit). Ladies who were at the reenactment with time on their hands started asking for classes. Then they started asking where our store was located."

Though not all of the stock carried at Wool, Warp and Wheel is period, a good portion is. The shop carries handmade spinning wheels and spindles, as well as looms. In addition to specialty knitting and weaving yarns made of wool, silk, mohair, alpaca, and a variety of blends, there are bushel barrels full of fibers for spinning.

The Cetners take particular pride in the fact that they don't sell over the Internet or mail order. "We focus on the people who enter and not on selling products," Rob said. "You can't feel the fibers or get a true representation of the colors from a computer."

The Cetners motto: we carry the products we use; if we're not satisfied with the performance of a tool or the quality of a brand of yarn, we don't expect you'll be happy either."

Linda Goone, who opened I'd Rather Be Knitting Yarn Studio in Long Grove just over a year ago said owning her store is a dream come true.

She said, "It's been a lifelong dream for me to have my own shop, because my grandma taught me how to knit when I was six years old. But there are lots of people becoming interested who always watched grandma knit, but hadn't tried it and are finding it's a nice relaxing way to spend some time. This is definitely not just for grandma anymore"

As with Wool Warp and Wheel, I'd Rather Be Knitting is a combination teaching studio and store. Goone has regular shop hours during the day, and conducts classes most nights. She, too, strives to maintain a welcoming atmosphere.

"I'm trying to build on community," she said. "Friday night is girls night out here from 7-9 p.m. Last week, 22 people came. It's a great opportunity to learn from people of all experience levels."

Goone said the only stipulation she has is that women attending Girls Night Out use yarn purchased at her store. She has over

Protect against heartworm through fall

Mosquitoes spread the heartworm disease so it's important to protect pets against at least through the first hard frost.

"I tell all clients it's important to keep to keep their dogs on heartworm preventative through November or December," said Katy Woods, veterinary assistant at First Veterinary Clinic in Richmond. "All it takes is one mosquito bite. Even though we've had a cooler summer and it hasn't been as buggy, we can still have warm weather into December."

Heartworm disease is a serious and potentially fatal disease in dogs. Much of the damage occurs before there are any outward signs of the disease. Symptoms include coughing blood and lethargy.

"It's already gotten pretty far by the time there are symptoms," Woods said. "If it's caught early, it can be treated but there is some risk in the treatment itself."

The disease is caused by worm named Dirofilaria immitis, which lives in the right side of the heart and adjacent blood vessels. The adult worms are large, females up to 14 inches and males about half that size, and cause disease by clogging the heart and major blood vessels leading from the heart.

By clogging the main blood vessels, the blood supply to other organs of the body is reduced, particularly the lungs, liver and kidneys, leading to malfunction of these organs.

This disease is spread from dog to dog by any one of over 70 species of mosquitoes. Female adult heartworms discharge larval forms named microfilariae into the bloodstream of a dog that are then transferred to the mosquito when it takes a blood meal from an infected dog.

In the dog, it takes about six months for these larvae to grow, move to the heart, mate and start the cycle again.

Woods said, "Annual blood tests are recommended just to be on the safe side. If you start giving the medicine, and then find out the dog is infected, it's more difficult to determine the stage of the heartworm."

She said some animals may only live a month, while others may live up to one year with untreated heartworm.

"Some of the medicines also control roundworm, hookworm and whipworm, and the threat of those doesn't go away in the winter," Woods said. "For animals that are really outside a lot, especially in rural areas, it's not a bad idea to keep them on heartworm preventative year round."

Always the bridesmaid Real love bug

Kimmie, a six-year-old Amstaff, is always the bridesmaid and never the bride. Though she is spayed, in good health and update on all her vaccinations, she's been at the Save-A-Pet (SAP) Adoption Center since January 2003. Pam Meland, of SAP, said, "We always take her to off-site functions. Her reports say she's very well behaved and friendly to all people. She kisses the puppies through the pen."

Kimmie

"Elaine is shy and not the first cat to be noticed," said Becky Carlen of Save-A-Pet. "But, she has the potential to be a good lap cat once she's settled in to a home." The two-year-old spayed female feline is healthy, plays well with others and is good with both children and adults. This yellow tabby sports freckles on her nose for extra cuteness.

Elaine

Save-A-Pet is located at 31664 N. Fairfield Road, Grayslake. It's closed on Tuesday, open 1-5 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 1-8 p.m. on Thursday and 11 a.m.-6 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. ## Relationships need more honesty

I believe that women need to be more honest about what they want in a relationship if it's to have any chance of succeeding.

Now before you argue the point, let me make my case.

The great comedian Rodney Dangerfield once said, "We are doing everything we can to keep our marriage together. We sleep in separate rooms, we have dinner apart and we take separate vacations."

And although Rodney was attempting to get some laughs, at the same time, I think he was expressing his honest desires.

Similarly, I wrote a column a few months ago about the fact that my girlfriend and I were considering getting married but that I did not want us to move in together.

You see, I, too, was hoping that by being honest I could find a way to make this "marriage thing" work.

And before you criticize this idea, like some of my previous readers did, please be aware that some statistics claim that 50 percent of all marriages end in divorce.

The plan was that my girlfriend would stay living in her townhouse and I would keep residing at my home, and we would have weekend, uh, visits.

And the benefits to this are endless.

She would remain responsible for her own mortgage payments and bills, and I would stay in charge of mine.

This way there could be no arguments about money which I believe is the leading cause of divorce.

Also, if we ever got into a fight about something, the visiting spouse could just drive back home and there would be absolutely no chance of domestic violence or of us saying things that we would regret later.

Yeah, by being honest about my desire to live apart, I thought that I had figured this "marriage thing" out.

But of course, she vetoed the idea, even though we have tried living together before and it didn't work out.

And I guess it's just as well.

The comedian Jerry Seinfeld once said that after years of trying, he still didn't have a clue about what women are thinking.

And it's not fair because it's obvious what most men are thinking.

As comedian Jeff Foxworthy once said, "We are thinking that we would like to have a cold beer and see something naked—and that's all we are thinking about."

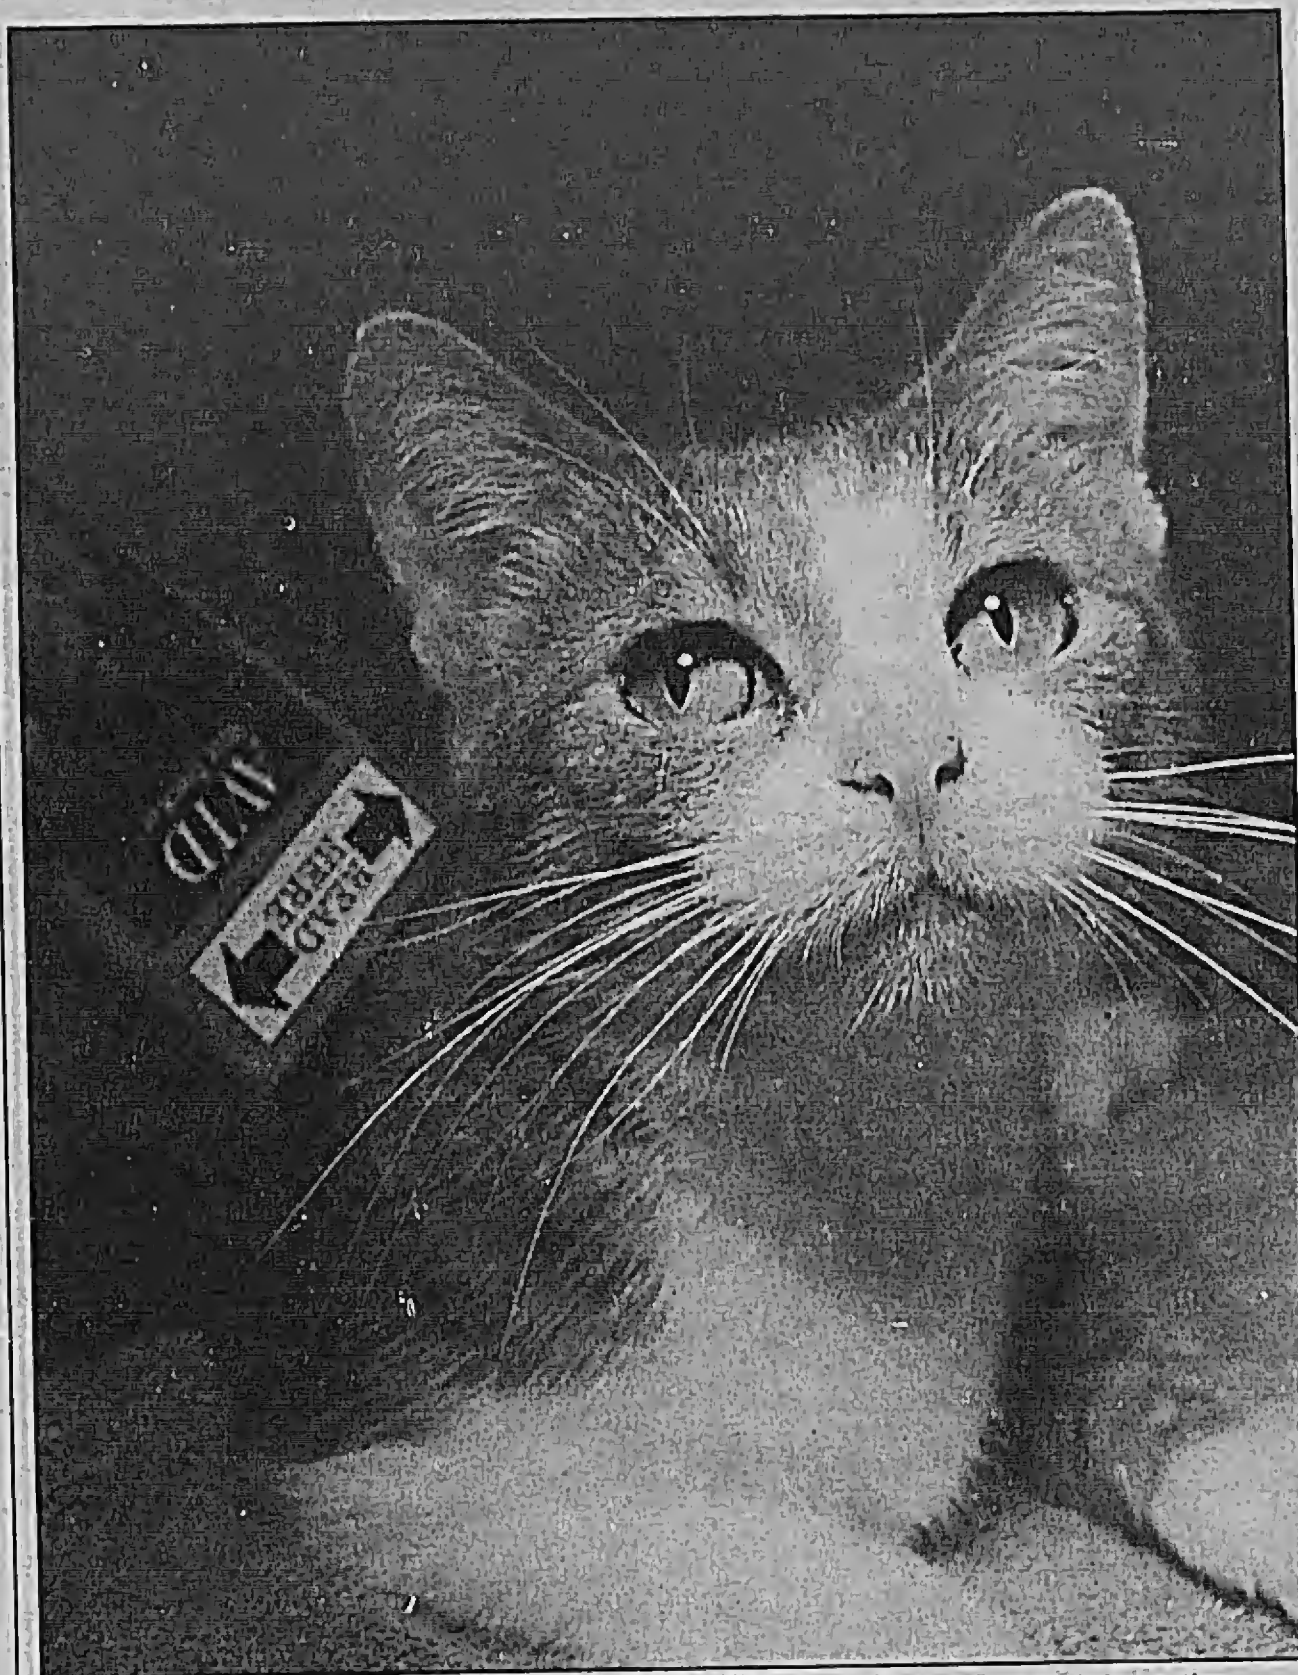

Of course, I believe that most men are deeper thinkers than that—but I believe Foxworthy was basically being honest.

Now, if we could just get the women to be a little more honest about what they want—I'm sure more relationships would succeed.

Tree House Animal Foundation presents 'Microchip Day'

Tree House Animal Foundation, a cageless, no-kill shelter for injured, abandoned and abused stray cats will hold its first "Microchip Day" in partnership with American Veterinary Identification Devices (AVID). Hosted by Dr. Derrick Landini, Tree House's Director of Veterinary Services, the event will be held at his Animal Ark Veterinary Clinic at 3235 N. Kedzie Avenue in Chicago.

Through the generosity of AVID and Dr. Landini, Tree House is offering the general public a chance to have their cats and dogs microchipped for the cost of $20. Dr. Landini will supervise the procedures, and AVID is donating the equipment and supplies for the day. We will offer information about the benefits of microchipping, and knowledgeable Tree House clinic staff will be on hand to answer questions and respond to any concerns about microchipping. We hope to be able to introduce the benefits of this technology to a large portion of the community and we hope you will join us. Interested pet owners can contact Jenny at 773-784-5488 ext. 231 to reserve a time for their pets.

Tree House was established in 1971 as a no-kill, cageless shelter for injured, sick, and abandoned cats. At Tree House, cats curl up on sunny windowsills, sleep in comfortable cat trees and interact with staff, volunteers and other cats. Tree House currently shelters 300 cats and found loving homes for nearly 500 cats in 2003. More than 11,500 cats have been adopted since Tree House's founding. Tree House also sponsors a pet food pantry for low-income families, a volunteer-driven animal-assisted therapy program for the infirm and elderly and an educational outreach program to local schools to educate children on the benefits of a human/animal relationship.

For more information, call Jennifer Schlueter at 773-784-5488, ext. 231, or e-mail at jschlueter@trehouseanimals.org.

Don't rain on mom's parade

Everybody loves a parade. But, if you're asked to join one, take my advice and retain a good attorney like "Louie The Locust." Otherwise you could be stuck twirling a baton in front of the tuba player until you feel like plunging your harpoon down Moby Dick's brass blowhole.

After participating in Crystal Lake's Fourth of July parade, I'd recommend "Louie" get something like the following in writing:

My client has first rights on any unclaimed perches on the back of parade convertibles, excluding the exploding trunk of the clown car.

In exchange, the aforementioned party will behave in the dignified fashion befitting either a beauty queen or political candidate—with the understanding that, if Coach Ditka runs for the U.S. Senate, "Da Queen" or "Da Republican Candidate" may dismount periodically and entertain the crowd with the "Super Bowl Shuffle." If for any reason convertibles are unavailable due to right of eminent domain by a duly elected queen and her court, or equal time demanded by an opposing political party and its saxophone players, my client is entitled to ride under the full protection of a municipal emergency vehicle—and lay on the siren enough to infuriate either of the parties above.

Finally, in the event of subsequent injury, the party of the first part is entitled to compensation, and a seat with the Precision Lawn Chair Team.

Now to my tale of woe highlighting the importance of protecting your own tail...

I agreed to join a bunch of Jazzercise instructors at the Crystal Lake parade. Anyway, after realizing this buff group wasn't riding—but prancing—down the parade route, I felt the need to relieve my pre-parade jitters.

While waiting in line for a civil war reenactor to stuff her hoop skirt into one of the Porta-Johns, I tried convincing "Birdie the Clown," Violet Schadeck of Island Lake, to grant me asylum as a member of her "Krazy Clown Club." (I certainly looked the part in my tie-dyed shirt and tinsel pigtales—like an over age hippie still recovering from a lightning strike at Woodstock.)

Too late. As the parade started moving, a Jazzerciser stuck a Liability Waiver under my nose, then pointed to my assigned spot: showing off my best feature by bringing up the rear. Worse yet, after a few minutes of my hyper-ventilating to "I Like The Way You Move," the rain started. There was no stopping this train wreck until the end of the line. (For one, the bus driver behind me would speed up and honk sadistically whenever I lagged behind.) Luckily, I was sustained by eating stray candy off the street—and the applause of my lone admirer. Thanks to the fella in the "Grumpy Old Man" T-shirt. And, if you're a lawyer, please contact me.

Veal scaloppine, dandelion salad unlocks taste of Southern Italy

Tom Witom

COOKING BY THE BOOK

Food writer Erica DeMane probes her ancestral heritage in "The Flavors of Southern Italy" (John Wiley & Sons, 2004). It's a volume filled with delicious recipes—"bold and clean," as the author describes them—plus awell-written narrative that keeps it all in perspective.

DeMane observes that for her, cooking lies somewhere between fantasy and reality: "The fantasy of creating food excites me; the reality of feeding myself, friends and family adds a semblance of tranquility."

She covers a lot of ground, from calamari filled with ricotta and herbs to cinnamon raviolini with tomato and shallot sauce to pork braciolo with provolone, parsley and capers.

Veal Scaloppine with a Dandelion Salad has an authentic Italian flavor. We leaf lettuce as a foil for the slightly bitter dandelion greens from a local Italian market.

Veal Scaloppine with Dandelion and Spring Onion Salad

For the salad:

1 large bunch tender young dandelion greens, stemmed, (about 2 loosely packed cups)

12 cherry tomatoes, stemmed and halved

1 small spring bulb onion, including tender green parts, very thinly sliced

Handful of pine nuts, lightly toasted

Small handful of salt-packed capers, soaked and drained

In a large salad bowl, combine all the salad ingredients. • Put the bread crumbs and ground pine nuts in a large, shallow bowl. Add the thyme, lemon zest, salt and cayenne and mix everything well. • In a large skillet, heat the olive oil over medium-high heat. • Pour the beaten egg in a large, shallow bowl and dip the scaloppine into it one at a time, coating well. Dredge the scaloppine in the bread-crumbs mixture. • When the skillet is nice and hot, add the scaloppine and sauté, without moving them at all, until golden and crisp on the bottom, about 3 minutes. • Turn over and brown on the other side, about 1 minute longer. • Using a slotted metal spatula, transfer to paper towels to drain, then transfer to 4 dinner plates.

Dressing:

2 Tbl. extra-virgin olive oil

Juice of 12 large lemon

Salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste

12 cup finely ground, lightly toasted bread crumbs

12 cup finely ground pine nuts

Leaves from 3 or 4 thyme sprigs, chopped

Grated zest of 1 lemon

Salt to taste

Pinch of cayenne pepper

1/4 cup extra-virgin olive oil

1 large egg, lightly beaten

4 large, thin slices veal scaloppine (about 1 1/2 pounds total)

For the dressing: Add the olive oil, lemon juice, salt and pepper to the salad and toss gently.

• Divide the salad over the scaloppine. Serve right away.

"DESSERT" FOR PIG ROAST

Pie and ice cream will be available for visitors to the 37th annual Linn Volunteer Firemen's pig roast on Sunday, August 8 at the adjacent Linn Presbyterian Church.

Both are to take place at the crossroads of South Shore Drive, Willow Road and County BB in Linn Township.

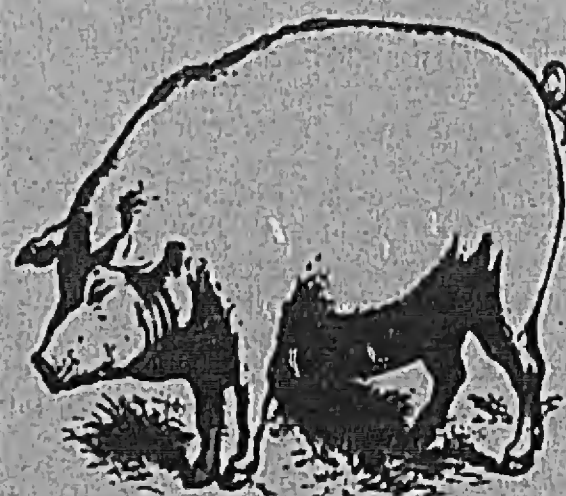

From noon-5 p.m. pies of every description, plain or ala mode will be available at the annual "sweet feast," home-baked by church volunteers. If you prefer ice cream without the pie, you can have it straight, in a root beer float or under a choice of sundae toppings.

What's the best kind of pie?

Whatever your answer, you can get a slice almost fresh from the oven. No tickets are sold in advance, but pie lovers are advised not to wait too late or the blueberry, apple, peach, raspberry or lemon meringue may be sold out.

Enjoy tastes of 14th annual Pig Roast

St. Matthew Lutheran Church, (Old McHenry Road between Quentin and Midlothian Roads) Hawthorn Woods, will sponsor its 14th Annual Pig Roast on Sunday, Aug. 15. Food will be served from 12:30-5 p.m.

In addition to the meal of roast pork, potato salad, baked beans and sweet corn other treats such as Dairy Queen (featuring favorites such as sundaes, chocolate dipped cones and blizzards), ice tea, soda, wine and beer will also be available for an additional cost. And don't forget Karl's Red Hots.

You won't want to miss clown and Balloon Master, Flo Szydelko, and back again by popular demand providing entertainment for all ages will be Rick Colon of "Clowning Around." Formerly of Ringling Bros. Circus, Rick will be on hand to entertain with his feats of magic, juggling, comedy and "fire eating." Entertainment throughout the afternoon will be provided with special music and Karaoke by Steve Swick from noon-5 p.m. Also, don't miss the Midway Games and the ever popular Bingo.

Admission is $10 for adults and $5 for children ages 4 thru 10. To purchase tickets or further information, call 847-438-7709.

Bait your family's taste buds and improve their health with fresh fish from the grill

By Louis Mahoney

Branch out beyond burgers, franks, steaks and chops on the grill this summer to include more seafood. It not only adds variety, but also heart-healthy omega-3, an essential fatty acid. Seafoods are naturally high in protein and low in saturated fats.

Salmon, halibut and scallops are good choices because they offer a variety of tastes and textures that are grill-friendly.

Scallops and halibut are squeaky clean. But shadows of concern were cast on farm-raised salmon in January in the wake of tests that showed samples had significantly higher levels of dioxins and other potentially cancer-causing pollutants than wild salmon.

The study, however, tested salmon raw and with the skin on.

Removing the skin, the Food and Drug Administration pointed out at the time, removes a significant amount of dioxins and other pollutants stored in the fat of fish. The pollutant levels also were within the FDA's legal limits.

The American Heart Association recommends at least two servings of seafood a week to help prevent heart disease. Salmon usually is listed as a top choice, not only because it is high in heart-protecting omega-3 fatty acids, but also because it is low in brain-harming mercury, another seafood contaminant.

Most health experts agree that the benefits of omega-3-rich seafood consumption far outweigh the risks.

"To alarm people away from fish because of some potential, at this point undocumented, risk of long-term cancer—that does worry me," said Eric Rimm, associate professor of epidemiology and nutrition at the Harvard School of Public Health.

Fish and scallops are relatively fragile seafoods that require special handling when grilled to keep them intact. Recipes using skewers may allow for easy turning and serving.

The wild Pacific salmon season begins in early May and runs into the fall, sometimes through November depending on the weather.

Although many Web sellers of wild Pacific salmon claim that it is higher in omega-3 fatty acids than Atlantic or farm-raised salmon, that's a red flag.

"Would that it were true!" said Laura Fleming from Juneau, Alaska, where she is public-relations director of the Alaska Seafood Marketing Institute.

"People need to understand that omega-3 content of food is a function of species and diet," Fleming said. "The exact amount, therefore, could vary from fish to fish in the same school."

"All seafoods have omega-3, and all salmon is high in omega-3," she said. "Everybody—the wild Pacific, the farm-raised, the Atlantic seafood folks, even the government—has numbers, and they all are slightly different. Some are based on edible, cooked portion, others on fish with skin and still others on fish without skin."

Both www.americanheart.org and www.alaskaseafood.org are good sources for more detailed information.

'The King and I' gets a stunning revival

Martin Vidnovic and Sandy Duncan star in "The King and I" at Auditorium Theatre, Chicago.

CRITIC'S CHOICE / Play By TOM WITOM

Rodgers and Hammerstein would be proud. The latest installment of a continuing Broadway in Chicago series features an endearing revival at the Auditorium Theatre of their 1951 show, "The King and I," the team's first musical collaboration.

Originally based on Margaret Landon's "Anna and King of Siam," it's a show that possesses dazzling costumes, dynamite sets and captivating songs.

It also features the talents of Sandy Duncan. At 58, the actress is mature for the role of Anna Leonowens, but she gives a noteworthy performance as the self-assured widow from Wales who has traveled to exotic Bangkok to become governess and tutor to the children of the King of Siam. Her singing voice in "Hello, Young Lovers," "Getting To Know You" and "I Whistle A Happy Tune" remains sweet and true.

Coincidentally, before going on to find success on the stage and on television, Duncan made her theatrical debut at the age of 12 in the same play as one of the king's many children.

Set in the early 1860s, it's a period when Anna runs directly into a culture clash. The king (Martin Vidnovic) has multiple wives and the offspring to prove it, and his obedient subjects pay obeisance by elaborate kowtowing.

Despite different ideas about a woman's place in society, the hoop-skirted Anna is won over by the personal appeal of the monarch, finding him receptive to learning about Western culture in order to shake off some outside misconceptions that label him a "barbarian." She and her 10-year-old son soon grow attached to the royal family and their country.

A subplot in "The King and I" involving the issue of slavery serves to highlight the differences between East and West. Tuptim (Luz Lor), a slave girl from neighboring Burma, is presented as a "gift" to the Siam ruler. In secret, she grieves because she is not free to be with the man she truly loves, Lun Tha (Martin Sola).

To impress an important visiting British diplomat, Tuptim presents a beautiful, inventive ballet she calls "The Little House of Uncle Thomas," based on "Uncle Tom's Cabin," Harriet Beecher Stowe's book on slavery in America. It's a story that mirrors Tuptim's own circumstances, and as it unfolds, she has her heroine, Eliza (Natalie Turner) escape.

"The King and I," directed by Baayork Lee and choreographed by Susan Kikuchi, runs just shy of three hours, but it moves along smartly every step of the way.

Gala Event at Ravinia: Peter, Paul, and Mary the featured artists

Sunday, Aug. 22, Hospice Partners will host a gala evening at Ravinia. Preceded by dinner under the UBS Tent, supporters will enjoy a concert by Peter, Paul, and Mary of new offerings and old favorites. Peter Yarrow will stop by to meet the Hospice Partners Group.

In addition, there will be a raffle. Prizes include airplane tickets, baseball tickets, dinners out to leading restaurants, spa packages, hotel stays, gift baskets, tickets to the Chicago Symphony, and Peter, Paul, and Mary memorabilia. More prizes are expected by the evening of the event.

Sponsor interest is high; Axion and several other organizations are already committed with a few opportunities still available.

Proceeds from the evening will benefit Hospice Partners, a non-profit hospice serving the seven counties of Northeastern Illinois. These proceeds are especially important because Hospice Partners turns no one away, regardless of financial circumstances.

Monies from the event will help ensure that Hospice Partners can continue to provide the very best in hospice care to everyone in the community. Hospice Partners provides a full range of services in addition to medical care. Bereavement support—for families, holistic therapies, and volunteer support for both patients and families are all part of the complete service they provide. The money will also be used to educate both the medical community and the public on hospice.

Hospice Partners' Mission is to provide the community with awareness of and access to compassionate hospice care. Dedicated to excellence in serving patients and families, it offers a broad range of services, education, and research on new methods of care.

For further information on this, their most important fundraising event of the year, please contact David Hayes at Hospice Partners at 708-234-2806.

opening this week

Intimate Strangers: "Intimate Strangers" is a beautifully developed and suspenseful drama that contains elements of film noir, dark humor, and romance. The troubled Anna (Sandrine Bonnaire) has a therapy appointment, but she walks into the wrong office. She tells her problems to a tax consultant named William because she mistakenly thinks he's a therapist. William is strongly attracted to her, so he goes on with the charade. He becomes a kind of psychological voyeur, and lives only for his meetings with Anna. As Anna reveals more and more about herself, William finds himself stuck deeper into her web of seduction. (R)

Allen Vs. Predator: Sanaa Lathan ("Out of Time") stars in this year's monster versus monster flick. A billionaire industrialist leads an archaeological expedition in Antarctica, to explore what he believes are the newly discovered ruins of a pyramid temple that predates those in Egypt and Mexico. When the expedition arrives they discover signs of life, which takes on more than a ghostly past when five teenage predators are ready to practice a coming of age ritual that involves fighting to the death with aliens. At this point the humans are caught in the middle with the prospect that only one species will come out alive. (R)

The Hunting of the President: Based upon the NY Times bestseller of the same name, this documentary tells the story of the ten year political campaign to destroy the career of Bill Clinton. The period covered begins with his final run in the Arkansas Governor's race in 1990 and extends throughout both terms of his presidency. Narrated by Morgan Freeman. Playing at The Music Box for one week. (Not Rated)

This film noir thriller delivers the goods

Vincent, played by a cool, silver-haired Tom Cruise, arrives in LA with a mission to execute five witnesses in one night so that a drug lord is not indicted by a Federal Grand Jury. He hires cab driver Max (Jamie Foxx), an expert at drive-time management, to take him to his various destinations. Vincent claims to be a businessman who needs to get signatures on documents and be back at the airport for a 6 a.m. flight. Although Max's intuition tells him to turn down the $600 he will earn driving Vincent he reluctantly goes along with the program.

Because of an unplanned event at the first hit, Max learns that Vincent is a killer. What had been a voluntary run from point to point is now done at the point of a gun, with Max as potential collateral damage. Mark Ruffalo, as a street-wise detective, uses his sixth sense added to new bodies piling up at the coroner's to calculate that something big is in progress in the right now time frame. While at the morgue he recognizes one of the victims as a prominent attorney, and intuitively that a killer is on the loose. Some recent unsolved killings involved a cab driver, without any criminal history, who presumably committed suicide after three people were executed.

Vincent knows what his goal is, in this instance to execute five hits, and he's not afraid to do what is needed to get the job done. Max, however, is a dreamer who is always talking the talk but not walking the walk. Will he ever move from driving a cab for an oppressive dispatcher, making chump change everyday, to having his own limo service with a fleet of Mercedes?

Earlier in the evening Max engages in an interesting and realistic conversation with a woman he picks up as a passenger (beautiful Jada Pinkett Smith in a smart, sophisticated portrayal) that tells you a lot about them as individuals. They connect mentally and emotionally but can Max find a way to at least get to first base in a meaningful relationship?

Somewhat like Denzel Washington's character in "Man on Fire," quiet events are disrupted at unexpected moments as Vincent pursues his mission. Being along for the ride as Vincent does his thing is worthwhile, but it's how Max changes that makes this film so effective. Pay attention to the dialogue that Max has with both Vincent and Annie. You'll then understand him when the formerly mild mannered cab driver starts running red lights at 70 MPH. Only then can the ending of the movie be truly appreciated.

Talent overcomes formula in this thriller with Tom Cruise as a bad guy in the mode of Denzel in "Training Day" and Tom Hanks in "The Road to Perdition." Directed by Michael Mann ("Miami Vice," "Ali," "The Insider," "Heat"), this film noir style picture has knock out performances not only by Cruise, but an Oscar caliber supporting role by Jamie Foxx. Mark Ruffalo is unrecognizable until you pick up on his voice; and Jada Pinkett Smith shows how great writing and directing can make the most of limited screen time. This is one of the best thrillers of the year.

Gurnee Mills Movie Theaters implement major improvements

By George O. Singleton

If you've not been to the movies at Gurnee Mills recently, you'll be pleasantly surprised with the improvements made at the Marcus Cinemas. An inviting new look welcomes you in two key areas, ticket sales and the concession stand. The improvements make it much easier to buy your tickets and items at the concession stand quickly, especially when the theater is crowded; which is often during the summer blockbuster season.

There are now six box office terminals and the times are shown on a digital screen directly above the ticket counters rather than out in the lobby. Concession stand registers went from eight to ten. Theater manager Jeff Sterling said in a recent conversation, "We added self-serve soda, which speeds up lines. It's easier to get the refills on the sodas, as you don't have to wait in any lines."

George to Jeff: Did you decide to do away with the self-serve ticket kiosks?

Jeff: We're adding more of them. Instead of being off to the side, they'll be right as you walk in. When they were on the side, a lot of people did not even know we had them.

G: Is this remodeling something that all Marcus theaters are doing?

J: Orland Park was the first one to go to this look. It's called our 2010 look. These are the updates to be completed by 2010. It will take a little while, as it's very expensive. We were number two in the process. We are one of the busiest theaters in our circuit. It has a beautiful look to it.

G: How often do you get to enjoy the fun part of the movie business?

J: (Laughing) not often, they (home office) tell us what we're going to get and I do the scheduling (start times). "Spider-Man 2," and the 4th of July weekend is always really big. "Shrek 2" was exciting as was "Harry Potter."

G: What's been the most exciting thing that has happened this year so far?

J: The day "Shrek 2" opened. It all came together on the same day. We opened the new box office and concession stands the day the film opened. It worked very well.

G: How many people do you employ here?

J: It's seasonal, but during the summer, close to 100. There is a team of 10 managers so we are able to work with a large staff, yet at times it seems impossible.

G: I've noticed in my six years of coming to Gurnee, that things run smoothly with respect to the curtain opening all the way, proper sound, film in focus, etc. How do you ensure such consistent quality in so many theaters (20)?

J: The crews here are union operators and many have been here a long time. The least tenured projectionist has been in the business for 24 years. Marcus is a smaller company and it's easier to provide personal service than some of our competitors.

We try to do our projects Monday through Thursday, when it's slow. On the weekend we normally have at least three managers on the floor, where the people are.

G: To what extent does the opening weekend box office determine what happens the next week?

J: Everything. We don't attract a lot of the art house crowd. If there are five movies coming in, they'll probably chop off the five lowest (at the box office for the current week). We also do "double ups" such as "Envy" and "Laws of Attraction," where they play in the same theater every other show. (Note: if you see this it usually means it's the last week for that film).

The coolest thing I like about the improvements is the self-serve soda stand. When you press the button for the lid to your cup, it's presented to you with the magic of movies. Marcus has always been a nice theater but it now has more of the feeling of a big event... like going to Six Flags Great America for the first time each year.

150 vendors from the major brands to the smaller, hand-dyed novelty yarns.

With the exception of Friday, evenings are for classes and the store isn't open for shopping. Classes include knitting, crocheting and felting in addition to specialty classes.

"I think one of the best classes is the finishing class," Goone said. "Fine finishing can make or break a garment. It's the difference between homemade and handmade."

Another special feature of Goone's shop is the Chemo Cap program.

"With this program, if you buy the first skein of yarn and knit a cap and bring it back to be donated to the American Cancer Society, I will give you yarn," she said. "I will give you yarn forever as long as you keep bringing caps in. My mother, my inspiration, died of breast cancer, so this is very near and dear to me."

Hannah's Home Accents in Antioch is older than a yearling and carries a broad spectrum of home decorating items in addition to its arts and crafts supplies, though it has seen "phenomenal growth" in the area of fiber arts.

"We keep expanding our specialty yarns and our class offerings," said Jane Marski, owner. "The trend is growing in all areas from youth on up. A grandma can come in with her daughter and granddaughter and all of them are interested in knitting."

She said the store draws from a 70-mile radius, and that people are coming for the yarn. She said new classes of knitting and crocheting will begin in September.

"It's refreshing to see an interest in the basics," Marski said. "It's nice that people are interested in making items by hand. Scarves and shawls are especially big right now."

Marski said she is continually researching new yarns and products to bring into the store and welcomes suggestions.

"It's a tension reliever and relieves stress," she said. "We want to do what we can to be accommodating."

We hope you will visit and loam about North Point Marina and enjoy the events we have planned."

North Point Marina's National Marina Day activities include a wide variety of food and beverage booths, music and entertainment on the main stage (2-4 p.m. Navy Band; 4:30 p.m.-8:30 p.m. Cammi's Energy; and 9:30 p.m.-10:30 p.m. DJ), children's games and petting zoo, artists and crafters displaying their goods, classic and hot rod car show, lighted boat parade at dusk (Parade Theme: Music! National Marina Day reminds our customers and our community that North Point Marina is a local, environmentally-friendly destination serving as a gateway for family and friends to enjoy one of America's great natural resources, its waterways."

National Marina Day is celebrated in conjunction with the Marine Operators Association of America in Washington, DC, the national trade association of the marine industry.

Chicago area artists, Dan Gamble, Sarah Figlio and Dann Witzak will exhibit their two dimensional work at the SFAC gallery located at 1957 Sheridan Road. Opening reception for the exhibit will be Friday, Aug. 27 at 6:30 p.m. and it is free and open to the public.

Soccer coaches needed

The Northbrook Park District is looking for volunteers to coach youth fall soccer. Coaches play an active role in helping to develop young local athletes. No experience is necessary; simply a desire to spend quality time with children is all that is desired. Free clinics are held each season (this year on Wednesday, September 1) to teach future coaches about the rules and fundamentals of soccer. Community volunteers are the Park District's most valuable asset, and athletic programs could not exist without the dedicated assistance from those who donate their time. ## AT A GLANCE

Crash investigation specialist dies

Waukegan—Lake County Sheriff Gary Del Re reported that Deputy Phil Scarlett, an accident reconstruction expert with the department, died Tuesday at age 54 after complications from heart bypass surgery. According to Del Re, Scarlett, 54, of Island Lake, was a 1968 graduate of Waukegan High School and was a member of the Waukegan Police Department from 1973-80, before joining the Sheriff's Office in 1986. He was the second officer in the state ever to be certified in accident reconstruction.

State Rep. pleads guilty to DUI

Michigan—State Rep. Ed Sullivan Jr. (R-Mundelein) pleaded guilty July 7 to impaired driving charges in a Berrien County, Mich. court room. Michigan State Police stopped Sullivan in Bridgman on June 6. Sullivan said he was alone in the car at the time and had gone to the area to play golf at a local resort. Sullivan was ordered to pay a fine and court costs on Aug. 6, during his sentencing. The original charges had been operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, which is similar to a DUI charge in Illinois.

County board honors little league team

Waukegan—The Lake County Board invited the Mundelein National Little League team to this week's board meeting to honor them for their success in being named as the 2004 Illinois State Champions. Lake County Board member Diana O'Kelly said they had placed in the top 36 teams in the nation.

Man charged with DUI, attempted murder

Grayslake—A cellular phone call received at the Grayslake 911 center on Aug. 5 began as routine, but soon turned disastrous as a chase ensued ending in an arrest and several charges including attempted murder. At 4:33 p.m. a motorist reported a suspected drunk driver in a white work van driving eastbound on Route 120, according to police. Two police officers observed the van move to the right shoulder of the road and then veer left into oncoming traffic. The driver was the only person in the vehicle and identified as Roger E. Phelps, 33, of McHenry.

Murder suspect may get death

By STEVE PETERSON
speterson@lakelandmedia.com

Adam Christenson, 21, has been charged with first-degree murder in the death of Elizabeth "Liz" Willding. He is awaiting an Aug. 3 preliminary hearing at Lake County Circuit Court.

Possible penalties were outlined at a packed court hearing for Christenson's first appearance. Christenson, who resided on the same block as Willding, could face 20 to 60 years in prison, 60 to 100 years, natural life, or the death penalty.

"He might be eligible for the death penalty," said Lake County Assistant State's Attorney Matthew Chancey.

Christenson is being held on $3 million bond. Christenson was indicted by a Lake County Grand Jury July 28.

Christenson entered a not guilty plea at his arraignment on Aug. 3.

Willding was stabbed more than 40 times when Christenson came to her residence after stealing an "X-Box" game, according to Lake County authorities.

Willding was going to be a senior this fall at Grant High School. She was a member of the volleyball team and the PM&L Theater group in Antioch.

The case has been assigned to Lake County Circuit Court Judge James Booras. An Oct. 15 trial date is expected.

For a week after the death, a sign, "We will miss you Liz," was on the marquee at GCHS.

At a memorial service held outside Grant High School July 14 and 15, Willding was remembered for her many interests. A poster depicted Willding's volleyball, water polo, theater and chorus interests. She was also a National Honor Society member and student council leader. Willding's parents were present, in the middle of a group of dozens of students, parents and staff. Willding would have been a senior this fall, graduating in the spring. Willding was a part of PM&L Theater shows

Jail land nabbed

By GINNY SKWERES
ginnys@lakelandmedia.com

A majority of the Lake County board members approved the purchase of property located at 104 S. Martin Luther King Jr. Ave. It will be used for expansion and parking the jail is expanded onto the existing parking lot in the future.

County Board chairman Suzi Schmidt said the county has been looking for property for more than 10 years. The land is west of the Sheriff's Office and has one structure plus two empty lots that total about three acres.

When the 'for sale' sign went up on the property, the county looked into it expeditiously but found it had already been purchased. Fortunately, the new property owner has agreed to sell it to the county.

"I believe we have reached an agreement with the new property owners, who are willing sellers, as far as I know," Suzi Schmidt said. "At least the board has approved the purchase."

The board has not had time to determine an interim use for the land until it is needed by the Sheriff's Office.

Galantha retires after 33 years with County Public Works

BY GINNY SKWERES
ginnys@lakelandmedia.com

Anyone who has ever had plumbing problems learns right away how important running water is not only to a house, but a neighborhood, a village, a township and the whole county. Some things aren't valued until they are missing, and that holds true for the infrastructure most residents take for granted.

For all the times in Lake County that water has poured out of the faucet, or the toilet has flushed correctly a lot of the credit goes too Martin "Al" A. Galantha, superintendent of public works, who has worked in the county's Department of Public Works for 33 years.

Diana O'Kelly, the board member who works with the public works department, said Galantha knows the history of everything.

"You've been an educator to all new board members," O'Kelly told him. She commended him for his efforts to improve the playing fields in Libertyville and Mundelein, as well as controlling the flooding in North Libertyville Estates.

Galantha began his career in Lake County on May 1, 1971 and is credited with building the public works department from a fledgling organization with 30 employees to a first class organization that has grown to 104 employees that County Board members consider "first rate."

Some of the projects Galantha has led include the construction of four regional sanitary sewer interceptors to serve major sectors of the county, upgraded two treatment plants, building a third treatment plant at Mill Creek and the construction of the North Libertyville Estates Levee.

Equally important to the board members is the fact that Galantha has developed a premiere health and safety program that is a benchmark for others. He also was instrumental in bringing water from Lake Michigan to Lake County through the formation of the Central Lake County Joint Action Water Agency and served as chairman from 1992 to 2004.

Under his direction the Public Works Department has been fiscally sound and achieved a good bond rating.

After board members lauded his accomplishments, Galantha modestly said that responding to these honors was more difficult than he had anticipated. He credited the success of public works to all of the employees and said it couldn't have occurred without them. "Thank you for the opportunity," he said. He considers his greatest accomplishment working with the people he met in the many aspects of his job.

Ten awarded for leadership and community service

U.S. Rep. Mark Kirk (R-Highland Park) honored 10 extraordinary residents of the Tenth Congressional District at a ceremony to mark each for their outstanding community service. These 10 special Americans were awarded a congressional certificate of Recognition as part of Congressman Kirk's first annual "Ten for the Tenth" awards. The awards are given to individuals whose leadership and community service exemplifies the best of the Tenth Congressional District of Illinois.

"During my four years of service, I traveled across the 10th District to learn firsthand how the federal government can best serve the needs of our communities," said Congressman Kirk during the award ceremony attended by the families and friends of those being honored. "While I learned important lessons about growing environmental threats and the need to protect our children from club drugs—I was struck by the people who are champions for these and many other important issues that impact our everyday life."

Kirk: Awarded first 'Ten for the Tenth'

Quiet Americans who take up the challenge of service with honor while representing their cause and our communities with distinction.

"And so to recognize these special citizens for their leadership and community service which exemplifies the best of the Tenth Congressional District of Illinois, I am honored to announce the first recipients of the 'Ten for the Tenth' award. Today, you will meet 10 very special Americans who represent their communities with distinction. And it is their commitment that makes not only our communities great but our country strong."

Condell recognizes volunteers at award ceremony

Condell Health Network's 2004 Volunteer of the Year was shared by two winners this year, and was presented during an annual ceremony and luncheon at the Country Squire in Grayslake. Mary Kay Anderson, of Mundelein, and Marlene Gose, of Gurnee, are co-winners of this award.

In less than a year's time as a new volunteer, Anderson has volunteered more than 700 hours helping patients and visitors at Condell Medical Center's front desk and as an attendant in the surgical waiting lounge. Gose, who has been a Condell volunteer since 2002, has donated almost 500 hours as a greeter at the hospital front desk and as a greeter in the Emergency Department.

"Both volunteers stepped forward and helped us with their leadership as the hospital expanded its Guest Services Department. They display ownership and a strong commitment to their roles," said Randy Weisemann, director of volunteer services at Condell.

George Schlung, of Antioch, received the 2004 Fred MacKenzie Award, an annual "traveling" award that recognizes outstanding volunteer work. Schlung has volunteered more than 4,000 hours since 1989 preparing and assembling blank charts for nurses and physicians to use for surgical patients. Schlung often comes in as early as 5 a.m. and stays until 1 p.m. working on this task.

Sheriff dodges 2nd lawsuit

By MARC JENKINS
Staff Reporter

Sheriff Gary Del Re deflected a second "groundless lawsuit" against what he calls two "politically-motivated" in the past four months.

In a minute order by Judge Joan Gottschall, a lawsuit by Fox Lake Mincola Marine owner Pete Jakstas was barred because it passed the two-year statute of limitations.

The judge said, "It is undisputed that (the) plaintiff discovered the alleged constitutional deprivation in 1997, but did not bring suit until October 2002."

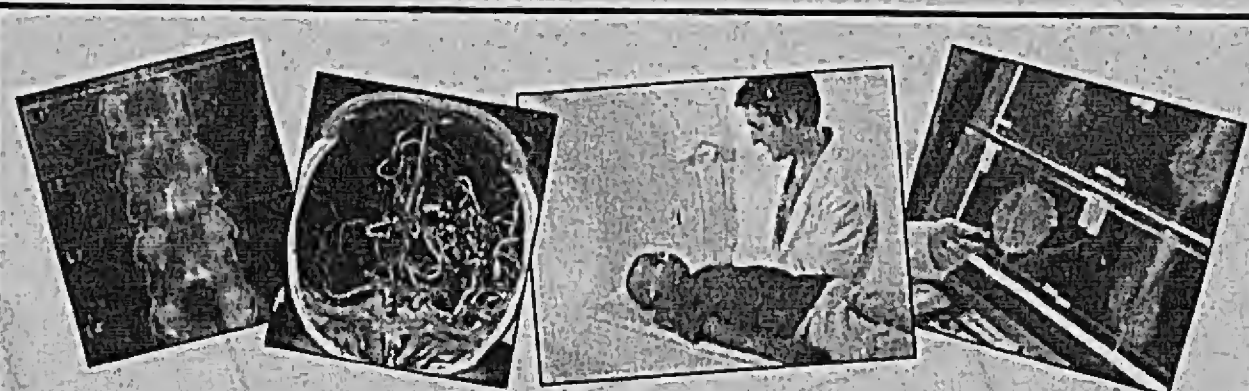

"I expected it (the decision in his favor) all the way along," Del Re said. "I thought it was politically motivated, because it was filed in the weeks prior to the election (in 2002)."

Del Re became Sheriff in October 1996 when he was appointed after the retirement of Clinton Grinnell. He was elected to a 4-year term in 1998 and again in 2002.

An undisclosed amount was sought by Mincola.

A lawsuit headed by Roger Whitmore of Whitmore Automotive services was thrown out of court in April. The judge in that case, Samuel Der-Yeghayan, said Whitmore had nothing to show other than a "collection of loosely-connected facts" in his case.

Del Re said proceedings in the Whitmore case to recover about $130,000 in legal fees and court costs are underway. He said the Sheriff's Office would pursue restitution of the same from Mincola, but the amount would be "nowhere near that of the Whitmore case."

Rash of car break-ins puzzles police

Lake County Crime Stoppers and the Highland Park Police Department are seeking information regarding vandalism to unoccupied vehicles throughout the city.

Since July 11, approximately 19 vehicles have been damaged by person(s) unknown breaking the windows with a blunt object. Most recently in the night/early morning hours of Sunday, Aug. 1-2 and Monday, Aug. 2-3, approximately 13 vehicles were damaged on the west side of the City (Sherwood Forest (Route 41 to Ridge Road-Deerfield Road to Park Avenue West). The vehicles were parked on the street as well as in driveways. Nothing appeared to have been taken from the targeted vehicles. Additional during the late evening-early morning hours of Thursday, July 29-30, the Highland Park Police Department radar trailer was damaged with a blunt object while parked on Beverly Place at Taylor Avenue.

Lake County Crime Stoppers and the Highland Park Police Department would like to remind everyone to call when suspicious activity or a suspicious person is observed, and do not try to confront suspicious subjects yourself.

More mosquitoes test positive for West Nile

Mosquito pools collected in Gurnee on June 24, Zion on July 1, and Highland Park on July 1, and a dead crow collected in Lake Villa on July 22, have tested positive for West Nile virus. In addition to these new cases, dead birds from Antioch, Hawthorn Woods and Grayslake, and a mosquito pool from Buffalo Grove tested positive for the virus earlier this summer. Statewide, two human cases of West Nile disease have been reported thus far in Jackson and Jo Daviess counties.

The Health Department maintains a West Nile virus hotline for county residents to report dead birds, report areas of stagnant water (which are conducive for mosquito breeding), or to obtain more information on the signs and symptoms of West Nile encephalitis. The West Nile virus hotline number is 847-377-8300.

Finalists named for Associate Judgeships

The Circuit Judges of the Nineteenth Judicial circuit have named the finalists for the Associate Judge vacancies created by the retirement of McHenry County Associate Judge Thomas F. Baker and the death of Lake County Associate Judge Thomas R. Smoker.

Chief Judge Margaret Mullen has certified the names of sole practitioners Raymond D. Collins of Libertyville and Michael W. Fetterer of Crystal Lake; Michael J. Fusz of Antioch, a partner of the firm of Tressler, Soderstrom, Maloney & Priess; and Robert A. Wilbrandt Jr. of Woodstock of the firm of Robert A. Wilbrandt Ltd. To the Administrative office of the Illinois Courts in Springfield as the four finalists.

The Administrative Office will mail ballots containing the finalists names to all Circuit Judges in Lake and McHenry Counties. The Circuit Judges votes will be tabulated in Springfield, and the final selection announced possibly within the next two weeks.

EDITORIAL

Travelers suffer in chess game

Scrunched as we are between two international airports, Lake County air travelers too often find themselves in the ugly "cross-eyed" cousin predicament. On one hand, we tend to be regarded with no respect. On the other hand, we're treated with indifference. The ungainly relative is relegated to the closet.

Lake County airline users aren't alone in the "no respect" category. The flying public in general comprises only the parts of a giant political chess game being played by Chicago's Mayor Daley, airline companies and the federal government over the feasibility of O'Hare expansion. What is both surprising and disturbing is the indifference with which Lake County customers are treated by the powers to be at Mitchell International, Milwaukee. Close by and convenient to more than half of the county's 700,000 population, it would be reasonable to believe that Mitchell authorities would be "courting" their Illinois neighbors big time. That doesn't seem to be happening.

The future isn't bright for untangling the web of deceit, interlocking interests and outright dishonesty involved with overcrowding and flight delays at O'Hare. The public is losing its champion for O'Hare sensibility, U.S. Senator Peter Fitzgerald (R-IL), who is not a candidate for reelection. Fitzgerald has charged that United Airlines and Daley invented the flight delay crisis to build support for more O'Hare runways. He also wants to restore O'Hare flight controls that were phased out in 2002.

The public and the airline industry as a whole pay a terrific price for the O'Hare political shenanigans. O'Hare backups create a disastrous ripple effect in all directions. For example, Madison's Dane County Airport has experienced its worst rash of flight delays and cancellations in nearly a decade during the first five months of 2004 because of O'Hare feeder flights being disrupted. O'Hare had 14,500 late flights in May, the highest number ever.

As we've recommended before, Lake County residents are advised to turn north when thinking about catching a flight. Even with a sort of hohum attitude about the Lake County market, Mitchell Field still is a better bet all the way around than O'Hare. While the planes are still circling O'Hare or sitting on the ground, Milwaukee International can get you in or get you out.

A flawed strategy

When it comes to cleaning up environmental messes, too many local officials take a "get in line" attitude. They file for bail-out government grants and wait their turn for the money to arrive.

That seems to be the case with Butler Lake in Libertyville. The long-time landmark regarded for many years as a desirable home site and the spot for year-around recreation is clogged badly with weeds and other shoreline vegetation. Nearby residents and citizens are getting frustrated that nothing is getting done to clean up the lake and make it useable.

Village officials have been working with the Army Corps of Engineers to arrange for dredging funds. The Butler Lake clean-up is regarded as a "small project" by the Army Corps. There are about two dozen other such projects waiting for funding.

In the Chicago District, the Army Corps has only about $1 million to "spread around" for small projects. Federal funds are doled out with strings, usually on the basis of 65 percent with 35 percent coming from local sources.

If about a third of the money for lake improvements will come from local sources, we think the possibility should be investigated about using hometown money for start-up or "head start" work. Might the feds be more inclined to release U.S. grants if local residents demonstrate a desire to start improvements on their own?

Long Lake, a recreational lake located between Fox Lake and Round Lake, slowly is being overrun with weeds. A citizens committee is monitoring deteriorating conditions, but is reluctant to initiate local action to improve water quality and head off the possibility of swimming accidents. The inaction is a version of "get in line." Thirty years ago, when Long Lake was being ruined by algae from a nearby sewage disposal plant, local citizens rolled up their sleeves to clean up the lake. One of the results was the formation of the Lake County Public Works Dept. and installation of a regional sewer system. Leaders didn't wait for money from Washington.

It is worthwhile to draw distinctions between so-called "small projects" and the massive infusion of time, money and effort to clean up an area like Waukegan Harbor, which is so large that only the federal government can manage rehabilitation. While local monies in such a project would amount to "splitting in the ocean," there's still a lot to be gained by local officials pushing and shoving. Why wait? Get started! They have and federal help is on the way.

There's a difference between getting in line and getting started. When the environment is at stake, it's difficult to believe that any forward step is not worth the effort.

VIEWPOINT

Classroom future seen for U.S.S. Conolly

Some day — and that day might not be too far off — Lake County children and visitors from near and far will be learning about naval history, principals of maritime engineering and propulsion and the role played by the U.S. Navy in keeping America free and strong at a floating museum in Waukegan Harbor.

They'll be aboard the U.S.S. Conolly, 563 feet of ocean-going grace and beauty, and the realization of a long-held dream to bring a U.S. fighting ship to Waukegan.

Forces are forming in Waukegan and Lake County to work with the U.S.S. Conolly Museum and Memorial organization in Plano, TX to form a two-state task force to bring the mothballed destroyer stored in Philadelphia to a permanent berth in Illinois.

Mayor Dick Hyde has given the "full speed ahead" signal for the City of Waukegan to marshal the public, private, philanthropic and political forces needed to make the establishing of the memorial warship and museum a reality.

Right now the favored site for

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

the Conolly's permanent home is the Johnson Motors north breakwater.

Robert Krusinowski, president of the Plano-based museum and memorial association, is in Waukegan this week meeting with city officials and State Sen. Terry Link (D-Waukegan) advancing plans for fund raising and relocation planning.

Krusinowski said the magic number currently is $5 million, the amount Conolly supporters must raise to reimburse the federal government for modifying and preparing the ship for transfer to Waukegan Harbor.

The Texan says the educational importance of the Conolly can't be emphasized enough. "We'll have an interesting tourist attraction. Yes. But the Conolly will be much more. For one thing it will be a floating classroom of sorts. There are endless educational aspects. The education component is vital for corporate support. So the Conolly will be much more than a museum and memorial," Krusinowski emphasized.

During an earlier visit, Krusinowski met with representatives of Congressman Mark Kirk, a Republican representing the 10th Congressional District. Bringing the Conolly to Waukegan is not a partisan issue, the museum official stated.

Krusinowski sees an 18 to 24 month time frame as realistic for bringing the Conolly to its new home. But he didn't say when the time clock will start clicking. Persons interested in the Conolly project are invited to the association website at www.dd979.com

COMMENTARY

Bucking trend toward press merger

This column appears every other week on the Lakeland Newspapers editorial page. As the author of it, I was heartened to learn that the Waukegan Times has joined the family of Lakeland and will be a part of the dozen community newspapers in the weekly chain.

Having represented the Waukegan-North Chicago-Park City citizens when I served in the State Legislature, I welcome all to the premier edition of the Waukegan Times. I hope that it will be the start of a long and trusting relationship.

The Lakeland Newspapers have served Lake County for many years. At a time when local newspapers are disappearing throughout the country, the victims of mergers and the gobbling up of local press outlets by media giants, it is refreshing to find Lakeland bucking that trend. Communities need newspapers which are geared to local needs and concerns.

SEEING IT THROUGH

John S. Matijevich

Three generations of the Schroeder family have headed Lakeland Newspapers. I have known the family for many years. The Schroeder name has remained strong in the newspaper field because of their professionalism, their commitment toward maintaining a neighborhood focus to their newspapers, and their involvement in civic and community affairs.

During all of my years in public service, I found the Schroeders and Lakeland Newspapers the most vocal at preserving, and defending the 1st Amendment of the U.S. Constitution. Without freedom of speech and freedom of the press, government would be totally irresponsible. Lakeland has advocated strongly that all public meetings be held open to the public. They have been in the forefront in the fight to have public access to public records. Freedom of public information must be a right for all of the public.

To first-time readers of the Waukegan Times and the "Seeing It Through" column, it will come as no surprise that most of the columns will key on government affairs and politics. It will cover national, state and local politics. At different times, I venture into other areas of interest.

Based on feedback, many readers have enjoyed the column, whether they agree with me or not. By the way, if everyone agreed with the columns all of the time, I would be doing something wrong. If you have any ideas for the column, let me know. Many thanks for your continued readership. I hope that you enjoy the Waukegan Times and the "Seeing It Through" column.

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Seek speed curbs for Rte. 12 'raceway'

Maybe sooner than later, Rte. 12, once considered a high-speed, limited access highway, will be a stretch of non-stop stoplights from Lake Zurich to Fox Lake.

Addressing a group of Grant Township officials on speed control efforts, Fox Lake Trustee Greg Murrey said the "Lake Zurich model"—lots of stoplights—may be the answer for curbing speed and reducing traffic accidents.

Fox Lake wants to involve the Village of Volo and the Illinois Dept. of Public Transportation in addressing a situation where accidents are increasing even as law enforcement efforts are stepped up. Fox Lake Police Chief Gerretsen said increasing enforcement is not the only answer to making the stretch of Rte. 12 from Wauconda north to the northern edge of Fox Lake safer.

Predicting that Mollitor Rd. will become the most dangerous spot on Rte. 12 because it is the intersecting point of commercial development for three areas—Volo, Lakemoor and Fox Lake—Fire Chief Ron Hoehne said the problem rests with IDOT's classification as N. Rte. 12 as a "regional arterial highway." The classification denotes high speed travel with drivers routinely traveling 10 to 15 miles over the posted limit.

Hoehne: IDOT viewpoint curbing efforts to control speed.

Bauer: Republican likes Democratic view for County Board.

Grant Township Highway Com. Kim Klesgen, driving a township truck, was smashed by a rapidly traveling semi-truck at the Mollitor Rd. intersection. She escaped with bruises and an apology from a startled truck driver who said he didn't notice the intersection because of fast moving traffic.

Because it has an overpass that separates commercial sectors of the village, Wauconda does not have the Rte. 12 speeding problem.

Murrey said a gathering of officials from various jurisdictions is scheduled for mid-September to take steps to curb speed. "But it looks like the Lake Zurich model is the answer—lots of stoplights."

Flood control blocked

Gurnee Mayor Don Rudny may be conducting some courses in basic math for trustees who fail to see the long-term benefits to buying up homes in flood prone areas and turning the lots into public open space. Rudy says there are 17 willing sellers and that about $3 million could swing the sales. Rudny and Trustee Tom Chamberlain, who supports the land buy program, say every flood costs Gurnee a lot of money so there would be a rapid pay back. Cost of the 2004 spring flood to the village was $1.2 million plus $250,000 for sandbags. Since floods aren't going away, Rudny is expected to renew efforts to buy the homes.

Follow the money

Hawthorn Woods Mayor Keith Hunt thinks work of village officials is worth compensation—even a little pay. Work is progressing on a compensation ordinance that would become effective with the village election of 2005. The pay scale is expected to get in line with neighboring villages of approximately $100 per meeting. If the pay proposal goes through, Long Grove and Kildeer would be among the handful of Lake County villages that don't compensate elected representatives.

Bauer supports Skinner

Lake County Board District 6 Rep. Don Bauer (R-Round Lake Park) is supporting the Democratic candidate Steve Skinner for his position in the November election over Republican nominee Larry Leafblad who use to be the District 6 representative. Bauer defeated Leafblad two years ago in the Republican primary but did not run in this year's primary due to health reasons. His wife, Round Lake Park Mayor Ila Bauer is also supporting Skinner. "I feel that Steve will respect his constituency in the Round Lake area far more than Larry has in the past," Mayor Bauer said.

Smart politician

Round Lake Village Trustee Dale Multerer is showing some smarts when it comes to making the right decision. Multerer who is up for re-election in March of 2005 was the only trustee to vote against a pay increase for Round Lake elected officials. If Multerer wins, he will not only get the raise but will have the respect of the taxpayers for not voting to give himself more dough. "I'm not in this for the money," Multerer said.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Teen Center leadership praised

As sponsors of the Lake County After School Summit and "Movement," we'd like to recognize the leadership of Sue Simpson, Warren Township Supervisor, and Steve Pannell, Park City Mayor, and their board members in co-sponsoring a Teen Center in Park City. The recent dedication of the new Teen Center was a huge success—kids packed the Center and were enjoying themselves playing pool, computer games, and just hanging out with friends. The dedication was supported by local businesses, Coca-Cola Bottling, J.R. Wrecking Service, Park City Cigo, and Waukegan Tire.

This is a great example of business and intergovernmental cooperation using community resources to meet community needs. We are thrilled that this new teen center exemplifies the mission of the After School Movement—The Lake County After School Summit is a coalition of community leaders dedicated to increasing access to quality after-school and youth development programs in Lake County based on each community's needs and resources. Members of the coalition include: elected officials; chiefs of police, park district directors, community organizations and educators. In this time of scarce resources, we must find ways to cooperate and coordinate services and that is why we applaud Park City, Warren Township, and the Round Lake Area Park District for their efforts. We will continue to work to make sure other communities benefit from their example so all the kids of Lake County have a Teen Center to call their own.

Making a difference

Comparisons were made with the record floods of 1986 in Gurnee and Fox Lake. The biggest difference is that all the attention went to Gurnee. As mayor of Fox Lake in 1986, I remember we had to evacuate 250 homes. This year, none. The difference this time can be credited to Congressman Phil Crane. He, with support of other area legislators, was able to obtain $3 million to help install flood control locks in McHenry and Algonquin.

Congressman Crane is able to get more accomplished for the 8th Congressional District with one legislative arm tied behind his back than his would-be business person opponent, despite all the rhetoric. Thank you again, Congressman Crane.

Facing bewitching year 2018

Lest your readers be confounded by columnist John S. Maulevich's "Social Security—Keep hands off of it" (July 23, 2004), here are some points to put the matter in perspective:

1. Question: What is the current exact balance of the Social Security Trust Fund, in dollars and cents? Trick question. The answer is: zero, zip, nada.

2. Why's that: Simple: For many years, Social Security taxes have exceeded payouts to beneficiaries. This has resulted in annual cash surpluses. Invariably, these surpluses have been immediately spent by the government in one of two ways:

—in years when the general budget is in deficit, the Social Security surplus is used for general budget (i.e., non-Social Security) spending;

—in years when the general budget is in surplus, both surpluses (the general budget and Social Security) are used to reduce outstanding federal debt.

3. Is George W. Bush the first president to do this (as the reader might innocently infer from Mr. Matijevich's wording)? Nope. Clinton did the same, as did others before him.

Mr. Matijevich is completely correct on this point: That the politicians have caused the problems associated with the system.

He goes on to say that if left alone the system might succeed and surprise us. Surprise indeed. It would be the first-ever instance of a successful Ponzi scheme.

Because that is what the Social Security system is. Around 2018, the system will have to pay out more in benefits than it takes in through taxes. And even if all the surpluses had been retained in the Trust Fund as cash, that money would run out around 2042—i.e., about the time today's 20-somethings hit retirement age.

The non-partisan Cato Institute has recommended rational solutions to the Social Security crisis: visit www.cato.org and www.socialsecurity.org.

'Paso' for Barack

By default and because of the Republican Party's ineptness, the state of Illinois will undoubtedly be represented in the senate by another liberal Democrat, Barack Obama. Without a debate there will be no one to question his voting record in the Illinois General Assembly where he supported raising fees and taxes on businesses thereby driving jobs out of the State of Illinois.

Without a debate there will be no opportunity for him to explain his opposition to the School choice program. His decision helped unions, but hurt kids by not allowing them to get out of failing schools. Without a debate who will question his attempt to gerrymander free medical care without any reasonable answer as to cost and method to pay for this care? Without a debate who will require that he substantiate his statement at the Democratic Convention that Arab-Americans are being held without legal council? Without debate have him explain why he has publicly stated that he would vote to repeal the "USA Patriot Act."

Finally, without debate why is it that campaign funds are flowing into his coffers from "out of state" liberal celebrities? He will not owe the voters of Illinois any accountability because of this uncontested campaign.

Wants serious candidate

That political convention. This is America so conventions are the necessary way. (God Bless America)

But Senator John Kerry used to say he didn't want to say much about his war experiences. Now, he borders on mentioning them too much. I suspect he will be the next president and then we will see what he can do about war: The real thing, not just words.

To salute and say "reporting for duty" reminds me of little John Kennedy Jr. at JFK's funeral. War is not child's play. Mr. Kerry's dutiful service in Vietnam is appreciated. His eyes have seen war dreadful beyond anything we civilians can imagine. So please Soldier, fit that personification is how you want us to view you, serious as you go sir. Serious as you go.

Alice Davis

Leading TV coverage

A new study from watch group Media Matters for America finds Fox News covered the Democratic convention far less than CNN or MSNBC. We'll have to see whether Fox treats the Republican convention similarly. Either way, those of us seeking complete and unbiased coverage of the election will have to change the channel on Fox.

Shop to blame

As a young man in his 20s without any children, I regrettably will never fully comprehend the feelings that may currently torment Ms. Willding after having arrived home one day to find her daughter deprived of a life she so deserved to live. I may have never known Elizabeth, but having been a part of the Fox Lake community for so long will always endow me with the right to express anger and disbelief over such tragic events. I am sure my feeling engendered by the events reflect those of the general community, but what I am not sure of is the extent with which some blame should be imposed on the pawn shop. It may be that pawn shops serve some useful purpose, but I will remain reluctant to recognize one. At what point does it fail to be obvious, that the social utility of such establishments are more than substantially outweighed by their destructive, crime-encouraging presence. If a person of average common sensibilities is offered an item which he has reason to know is stolen, i.e. no receipt or any other circumstantial proof of ownership, and that person does nothing to thwart the crime by notifying the police, then it is only logical that person be considered an accomplice to the principal crime—that of stalling the life young of Elizabeth Willding.

Kerry offers hope

John Kerry's speech at the convention was just what this country needed to hear—a message of hope and positivity. After such a difficult three years, filled with so much deception and distrust, there is finally reason to hope again. Kerry is a man with integrity, a proven record, strength, and wisdom. It's time for Americans to get behind our next great leader.

Unsafe future

On a recent Saturday afternoon at 4 p.m., I took a brisk, one-tenth mile walk along Hainesville Road (between Lake Avenue and Indian Trail Road). Within this brief period, I counted 34 unsafe motorized vehicles pass by.

A proposal to construct a four-building, 252-unit condominium complex along Hainesville Road is currently under consideration by the Planning Commission, Village of Round Lake Park. Given the current levels of congestion in this area, a development of this scope will certainly lead to oppressive traffic conditions, guaranteeing unsafe conditions and markedly reducing quality of life for all. The Village of Round Lake Park decision-making officials must do the right thing—reject this disastrous proposal.

Lake County Regional Framework Plan public review meetings rescheduled

Public review meetings for the Lake County Regional Framework Plan, which were initially scheduled for July 22nd, 27th, and 28th are being delayed for approximately 60 days. The new meeting dates are September 27th, 28th, and 30th. The new schedule will allow members of the Lake County Board more time to review the draft Future Land Use map before they are released for public scrutiny.

A draft version of the Lake County Regional Framework Plan will be presented and reviewed at six public meetings in September. At each meeting, staff from the Lake County Department of Planning, Building and Development will provide an overview of the plan and answer questions and the Regional Planning Commission will receive public input.

The locations for the public review meetings are:

- September 27, Lake Villa Township Hall, 37908 N. Fairfield Road, Lake Villa
- September 28, Greenbelt Cultural Center, 1215 Green Bay Road, North Chicago

• September 30, Lake County Discovery Museum, 27277 Forest Preserve Drive, Wauconda

Each date and location will have meetings at 4:00 PM and 6:30 PM. The two meetings will each include an overview of the Regional Framework Plan preceding the public comment period.

The draft plan will be available for review approximately one week in advance of the public review meetings on the Internet at www.co.lake.il.us/planning/framework.asp, public libraries throughout the County, and the Lake County Planning Resource Center (847-377-2140).

Comments may also be submitted in writing to the Lake County Regional Planning Commission, 18 N. County Street, 6th Floor, Waukegan, IL 60085.

Comments must be received by 5:00 p.m., Friday, October 1, 2004.

Public review of the Lake County Regional Framework Plan is the final step in the update process before the County Board formally adopts the document.

County planning officials view the public review process as an opportunity to make certain that every person impacted by development in Lake County has input in the plan.

"This next stage in the plan adoption process is critical," said County Planning Director Phil Rovang. "Now is the time to ensure we haven't overlooked anything. We look forward to a real public dialogue regarding the proposed goals and policies."

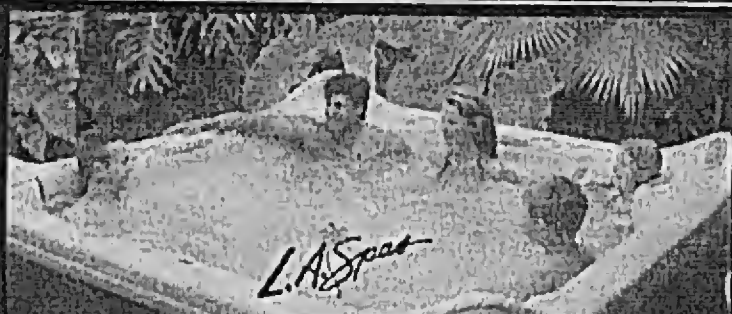

The regional framework planning process began in January 2001 with a kickoff meeting attended by over 100 people. Since then, the RPC, County Board Members and staff have met on a quarterly basis with representatives of Lake County's 52 municipalities, 18 townships and numerous civic, service and neighborhood organizations. The RPC has also received input from representatives of local, state and federal agencies and from numerous experts and advocates on topics such as electrical energy transmission, farmland preservation and affordable housing.

The Lake County Regional Framework Plan is the comprehensive plan that governs development throughout Lake County. The purpose of the plan is to promote and coordinate the needs and effects of development on the economic, manmade and natural environments within the county and the region. The plan includes a future land use map that shows the recommended uses of property through 2020.

The draft Regional Framework Plan is organized into 11 chapters:

- Chapter 1, Introduction
- Chapter 2, Population
- Chapter 3, Economy and Employment
- Chapter 4, Environmental Resources, Farmland, and Open Space
- Chapter 5, Infrastructure and Services
- Chapter 6, Community Revitalization
- Chapter 7, Transportation
- Chapter 8, Housing
- Chapter 9, Land Use
- Chapter 10, Community Character
- Chapter 11, Intergovernmental Coordination and Implementation

Health Department Recruits Volunteers for Medical Reserve Corps Initiative

The Lake County Health Department/Community Health Center is recruiting volunteers for its federally funded Lake County Medical Reserve Corps program. The Medical Reserve Corps is designed to provide a well-trained volunteer corps of medical professionals, mental health professionals and non-medical support personnel to respond to local emergencies and to promote health and wellness in the community throughout the year.

"The Health Department is continuously expanding and fine-tuning its emergency preparedness plan in order to prepare for major emergencies," said Health Department Executive Director Dale Galassie. "A large scale emergency, whether it is an influenza epidemic or an act of terrorism, would require the assistance of many trained personnel. A well-trained and skilled team of Medical Reserve Corps volunteers can help keep our community prepared."

Medical Reserve Corps volunteers can be active, inactive or retired health professionals, students in health professions and others with related skills. Volunteers may include physicians, nurses, dentists, pharmacists, mental health practitioners, laboratory and radiology technicians, medical students and non-medical personnel. All volunteers will receive basic training in bioterrorism, disaster preparedness, incident command systems, first aid, CPR and blood borne pathogens and standard precautions.

Medical Reserve Corps volunteer duties could include assisting emergency response teams, surveillance and notification, education, vaccination and/or distribution of medication and supporting local public health programs, such as children's health fairs and flu clinics. The Medical Reserve Corps will not replace existing resources and capabilities. It is to help existing ones.

The Medical Reserve Corps was established in response to the outpouring of volunteer support in the days following

September 11, 2001. President Bush created the Citizen Corps, a group of volunteers who work to make sure their families, homes and communities are prepared in the event of terrorism, crime and disasters of all kinds. A specialized component of the Citizens Corps is the Medical Reserve Corps. The Medical Reserve Corps provides a way for medical and public health volunteers to offer their skills during local crises throughout the year.

For more information or to obtain an application, please call Chet Splitt, the Health Department's Medical Reserve Corps Coordinator, at 847-377-8358 or email him at csplitt@co.lake.il.us.

On Aug. 25, the YWCA Lake County will sponsor a session on identity theft from 7-8:30 p.m., at its headquarters, 2133 Belvidere Road in Waukegan. ### Trustmark earns distinguished fellow award

Trustmark, the Lake Forest-based insurer, was named the 2004 Corporate Distinguished Fellow by Family Service of South Lake County, a not-for-profit organization that provides preventive, educational and counseling services.

"Some corporations are simply motivated by money, but others are connected to the business world with a humanistic philosophy and sensitivity to the world around them," said Mary Beth Jones, Vice President and chairwoman of the FSSLC Development committee. "In Lake County, one of the institutions is Trustmark."

CLC hires six instructors

The College of Lake County board of trustees began discussions with Dr. David Pierce of the Association of Community College trustees (ACCT) about the process to be used in selecting the next CLC president. The board selected the ACCT as the consulting firm for the search to replace Dr. Gretchen Naff, who will retire as CLC president in June 2005.

Pierce indicated that the search process will begin after the board finalizes the selection of a search committee, which will consist of about 18-20 people, drawn from all segments of the college community as well as the Lake County community.

In forming the committee, Board Chair Barbara D. Oilschlager indicated that the board wishes to mirror the gender and racial/ethnic composition of the college's student body and ensure participation by all employee groups and by citizens from the community.

The board approved the appointment of Deborah Jezuit as director of nursing education, as well as the appointment of six instructors, there by completing the hiring of full-time, tenure-track faculty for the coming academic year. New faculty hired are: Therese Crews, dance; Elizabeth Erkert, dental hygiene; Joseph Gehrke, administrative office systems; Susan Herrmann, medical imaging; Shane Jones, biology; and David Petrusis, architectural technology/CAD. These appointments bring the total of new faculty hired in preparation for the 2004-05 academic year to 19.

At the last meeting, the board passed resolutions recognizing the services of several retiring faculty members, Eibhlín Glennon Jerry Pinkham and Tom Vogl, as well as for Michael Corn, retiring dean of the biological and health sciences division.

The board approved revisions to policies on student rights and responsibilities and vacation benefits for classified and non-exempt specialist employees.

Under programs, the board approved the addition of an associate in applied science degree in Electronics Systems Technology, a credential that will provide students with advanced skills in installing, repairing and maintaining electronic systems. Although open to all, the program will especially benefit Navy electronics personnel, allowing them to apply Navy training toward an associate's degree. The program will take effect after state approval.

In other action relating to programs, the board adopted the 2003-04 performance report and the community college accountability/program review report, which will be submitted to the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

In contract matters, the board authorized the Alford Group to conduct a study at a cost of $36,000 to investigate the feasibility of raising private funds to construct a business and industry conference and training center at CLC's Southlake Educational Center.

Under grants, the board accepted a Carl D. Perkins Title III Program grant for $420,862 from the Illinois Community College Board to provide support services for career and vocational students. The board also accepted $292,890 from the U.S. Department of Education for the third-year in a four-year funding cycle for the Educational Talent Search program, a stay-in-school program aimed at at-risk youth in the Round Lake, Waukegan, North Chicago and Zion-Benton school districts.

The board also accepted a $29,200 grant from the Illinois Violence Prevention Authority to continue funding violence prevention and safety programs, and $10,000 grant from the Council for International Exchange of Scholars to cover the expenses of visiting scholar Dr. Mohamad Abu Bakar from the University of Malaya in Malaysia.

In purchasing the board approved the acquisition of classroom and conference room furniture for the new technology building from Krueger International of Chicago for $917,126.64. The board also approved several annual maintenance agreements, including agreements with Altura Communications, of Chicago, for $73,118.76 for the Fujitsu telephone system; Johnson Controls, of Arlington Heights, for $60,320 for the computerized building control systems at the Grayslake and Lakeshore campuses; W.C. Dorsey and Associates of Gurnee, for $45,000 for the database system used for the driver safety and family parenting programs; and IBM, of Pittsburgh, Pa., for $35,889.72 for the PeopleSoft software servers.

anticipates it will need to expand its operations as the county population grows, and is currently enlarging the area of the work-release program.

The board decided buying the land now when it is available, made more sense than waiting and paying more for it, if it would even be available in the future.

Currently parking near the county complex in downtown Waukegan is scarce, even more so than usual now that there is construction in the area. The county has trouble finding places for prospective jurors to park.

"There's a problem with parking, and now was just the right time to buy it," Board Member Diana O'Kelly said.

in Antioch since age 3. The family moved to Ingleside from Antioch in 1998.

Just two weeks shy of her 17th birthday when she died, Willding is survived by her mother, GERALYN GLERUM (Scott Pregent) Willding of Ingleside, her father, Dr. R. Stephen (Linda) Willding of Lindenhurst, her sisters, Courtney A. and Stephanie D. Willding of Ingleside, her maternal grandmother, Lorna M. Willding of Port Richie, Fla., and several aunts, cousins and uncles. Memorials may be made to PM&L Theater. She was proceeded in death by her paternal grandfather, Robert L. Willding.

St. Peter Catholic Church in Antioch was expecting a capacity crowd for services for Willding. "Remember her how she lived, not how she died," the audience was told.

3 'Top Cops' to be honored in D.C.

Three Gurnee Police officers will be awarded with a national TOP COP award on Sept. 11 in Washington D.C. for their parts in the January 2003 standoff with a gunman in the Providence Oaks subdivision.

Officers Jeremy Gaughan, Michael Mann and Kevin Schreiner will all be receiving recognition from the National Association of Police Organizations, which sponsors the award, given to only 10 officers annually.

"The Waukegan Times' success will be near and dear to my heart. I believe in Waukegan's future and its potential," said Lakeland Managing Editor Marc Jenkins. "The Times will go a long way to shatter negative stereotypes about the city. Contrary to what's always reported in the dailies, there's more to Waukegan than crime and a blighted lakefront. We will make certain that readers will see a side of Waukegan that they can take pride in each and every week."

Lakeland Newspapers currently publishes 12 weekly community newspapers in Lake County, along with the Market Journal—a shopper—and the Great Lakes Bulletin, which serves Naval Station Great Lakes.

The launch of the Waukegan Times signals Lakeland's prominence as the local news leader in Lake County. Its newspapers now have nearly 100,000 readers each week.

Helping kids too much can actually damage their futures

Hi Dr. Singer,

I am calling you for your newspaper column about my sister-in-law. She has a child who, I think, is in line for some hard things down the road if things don't change. She is not amenable to coming to see any professional now and I thought if you could answer this question in your column, I could show it to her and convince her to get help now. Her daughter is 7 and is very much in a 'shell.' I believe she is in that shell because everyone does things for her and always has. She has 3 brothers and 1 sister. When someone asks her to do something or say something, the entire family falls all over itself to answer for her or do the thing for her. Consequently, she doesn't even try to answer anymore or take anything on. I see her shrinking into herself and I don't like it. I have told them time after time to let this kid answer for herself and do for herself because it will be better for her. They don't listen or stop this. I'm afraid that she will get worse and worse with time if they don't stop and that eventually, when she does have to do things for herself, she will have no experience with it and fall apart. I want to avoid this tragedy. Am I wrong? H.H.

Hi H.H.,

No you are absolutely not wrong and I appreciate your effort in trying to help this little girl. I also see this everyday in my practice and I help lots of people to let their kids learn to say and do things on their own. I do hope you share my response with your sister-in-law.

The problem is insidious. First, when the child is very young and really cannot answer for herself or do for herself, everyone helps because it is the family type thing to do. But what happens is, the kid who is getting helped gets the message early on, that he or

PARENT'S PLACE

she doesn't have to use any effort to get anything or do or say anything. It's easy for that child. There is no work or struggle involved because everyone else is doing it for that child. Think, though, what would happen if you got someone else to exercise for you. How much weight would you lose? How firm up would you be? You would be doing none of the work or struggle so you would gather none of the rewards. It is the same with a kid who has everyone doing the struggle for him or her, but the child is losing out on a lot more than a weight issue.

You are also correct that someday, that child will need to use her skills and be independent. Unfortunately, in her family's desire to be helpful, they will have taken away her chance at being independent. What is even harder is that the longer the family takes the work and struggle away from that child, the harder it becomes for her to do anything herself. Therefore, when she tries, it looks far more painful than it should and in races the helpful family again, rescuing her from her struggle.

All of our growth comes from struggle. In fact, there is no growth without struggle. This is why I get so nuts when I hear parents tell me that they are trying to make it easier on their child. It doesn't make it easier on the child. It just makes the parents feel better about their relationship with the child, for now. Later on, it is nowhere near easy to watch a child, who is now an adult, who cannot do even the easiest of tasks on his or her own because family members raced in and made sure it was done for him or her.

I think the worst case of this I ever saw was in my very young days in practice, over a decade ago. I used to do Psyche testing in the schools. I was supposed to test a boy who was suspected of being mute. This is a person who does not speak. I started to set up my testing equipment while the boy watched me. After about 5 minutes of watching me, he quietly asked me what was in my "suitcase" (testing bag). I looked at him, amazed that he spoke to me, and told him this: 'I was told that you don't ever speak. Why do people think that about you?' He responded to me by saying, 'I don't usually have to talk because my older sister usually does it for me.' I about fell out of my chair when I heard that, but since then have seen lots and lots of it. My recommendation at the staffing was to stop the sister from constantly intervening and make this kid start talking as much as possible.

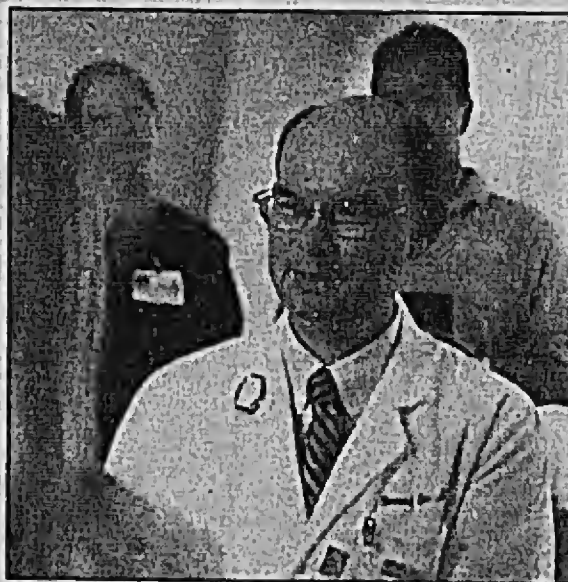

My advice to you is to show this column to your sister-in-law and tell her that the best thing she can do for this child is to strongly tell the other kids and anyone else who tries it to let this kid do and say for herself. Let her 'cut her teeth' at home in a safe environment instead of having to wait until she is older and out of that home, when it may be way to late to change anything. None of us should ever be afraid to watch a child struggle a bit to gain great skills that will help them to be independent and competent. Try and get her to see me about it. I do this at least three times a week and can give her some good guidance. Also, if the child has lost any skill development, which I would guess is the case by now, I can help train the skills back to where they should be. Good luck.

Dr. Singer is a Psychologist who regularly works in person with readers of this column improving kid's attention, behavior, processing and learning skills fast. For an appointment call (708) 962-2549 or (847) 231-5644. Dr. Singer's office is located in Grayslake.

Parents developing roles in their child's college education

This fall millions of parents will take their child to college for the first time. They will load the car, drive to campus, unload the car, kiss their child goodbye and leave.

Then what? Do they sit around and wait for the homesick phone call? Do they dare ask how classes are going? Should they visit the campus during the year? Does the college want their involvement or will they see it as meddling?

During the last decade parents have become more involved in their student's college experience, which colleges have embraced. Some experts attribute this to the fact that Baby Boomers — the parents who were very active in their children's lives — are sending their kids to college. They are the Soccer Moms and Little League Dads who aren't ready to let go just yet.

Others say parents want to know how their thousands in hard-earned tuition dollars are being spent. After all, financing a college education now ranks with buying a home and saving for retirement in financial impact.

Parents definitely should be involved in their student's education, says Monica Groves, dean of students at Northwestern College in St. Paul, Minn. "Parent involvement holds the parent, student and the college accountable," she explains. "Parents know their kids best, so they need to keep in touch to pick up on any warning signs of possible trouble that needs to be addressed."

Parental involvement holds the college accountable to uphold standards and commitments, she adds. For example, if enough parents express concern about a certain policy or incident, it grabs the administration's attention, which can bring positive change.

Parental involvement doesn't stop with the college admissions process.

It continues on campus, beginning with freshman orientation. Northwestern, for example, offers parent sessions with administration and faculty. Veteran parents host a Q & A time to share stories and advice. Throughout the year parent-related events are held, such as family weekend and home games honoring parents.

Like many colleges, Northwestern has an office of parent relations that serves as a liaison between parents and the college, explains Jessica Hughes, assistant director of parent relations.

In addition to being a sounding board of parent concerns and ideas, the office is a resource of college services. It communicates with parents through a handbook, newsletters, e-mail blasts and a Web site. A parent advisory council communicates parents' perspectives to the administration and provides information and support to other parents.

"We field calls, answer questions and develop networking relationships among parents," says Nancy Watson, a council member from Billings, Mont. "Sometimes parents just want to talk to another parent."

How involved is "involved?"

Groves and Hughes have fielded parent calls about parking tickets, roommate issues and unfair grading. "On the other end of the spectrum, some parents call asking us how often they should call their student," Groves smiles. "They don't want to embarrass their student by calling too much."

Hughes says a lot of calls are from parents who want to help their student, but don't know the college resources, such as health services, housing, counseling, etc. "Most of the time they want their child to resolve conflict like a grown-up," she adds.

Groves and Hughes offer practical ways parents can be involved:

- Before the student leaves for college discuss when and how often to call, and which communication method the student prefers: phone, e-mail, mail. Expect changes as you and your student adjust.

- When your student is having a problem in class, ask them if they have talked to the professor. If they have and it wasn't satisfactory, encourage them to talk to the dean. Encourage your student to be bold and not afraid to seek help.

- Volunteer for the parent council or other parent organizations and events on campus. Network with other parents.

- Come to campus when invited. If you live nearby, attend a few public events such as concerts and sports events. These help you connect with the college, but are less intrusive in your student's "space."

- Read the college publications and check out the Web site to keep up-to-date on news, events and policies.

Of course, there are a few Parental Don'ts:

- Don't stay overnight in the dorm.

- Don't call your student until after 9 a.m. College students are on different schedules!

- Don't go around the student to solve their problem.

- Don't contact the college to get your student's grades. The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) is a Federal law that protects the privacy of student education records. While FERPA gives parents certain rights to their children's education records, when the student reaches age 18 or attends a school beyond the high school level, the rights transfer to the student.

No matter what level of involvement parents choose, they need to listen to their student, Groves emphasizes. "Sometimes students are irrational when they call home. Recognize that they are venting and may exaggerate," Groves says. "After they calm down, discuss the problem and encourage them to find the right people on campus who can help."

"Be involved as much as you love them," Watson advises. "Be involved so you don't lose them. They may be 18, which is considered adult, but they are actually on the fence of adulthood and still need some guidance. The college years are when they make choices that impact their entire lives. It's an age when many students, due to lack of direction, fall prey to pornography, substance abuse and eating disorders."

Yet often it's the parents' role to let their students make their own decisions. "When I wanted to write a professor about my daughter's course load, she was adamant. 'Don't you dare! I'd die a thousand deaths!' So I had to abide by her wishes," Watson recalls. "They have to learn to deal with some things on their own. I've had to keep my mouth shut several times, but I'm glad I did. She has made some excellent decisions and really grown up."

The parental role in a child's college education does not end with the admissions process. It spans the collegiate experience through various opportunities that are both comfortable and compatible for students, parents and the college.

5 things to ask when choosing child care...

Free

area schools

Make the right decision for your child...

1. What programs do you offer?

We are a full service facility offering full day and part-time childcare, an innovative private kindergarten curriculum and before and after school care programs.

2. What is your facility like?

We offer so much more than other childcare centers. Our full-size gym, Nature Museum, Interactive Neighborhood and beautiful grounds offer a positive outlet for kids' energy and gives them space to "learn through play".

3. How stable is your staff?

The average tenure of our staff is 12 years. Our pre-school manager has been with the district 18 years and our school-age manager has been with us 23 years. This stability allows us to concentrate on curriculum, programming, facility improvement and meeting your child's educational and recreational needs.

4. Can I participate in my child's education?

Yes. Our Parent Advisory Council is open to all CDC parents and provides an ongoing opportunity to make a difference in your child's educational environment.

5. Do I have to reside in Round Lake for my child to attend?

No. We offer the same premium care to non-residents at new lower rates. Plus, we provide free transportation to area schools, so there's no need to change care providers as your child grows.

The reason behind the festival...

Helping Needy Children

The Round Lake Park Summer Festival on Sunday, August 22, is sure to be a lot of fun for not only the Round Lake area, but for families all over Lake County.

But the real joy from the festival will show in the eyes of needy children this December when the proceeds from the event support the Round Lake-area's 'Shop with a Cop' program.

Last year, two hundred, sixty-six children and more than one hundred police officers and volunteers came together at the Round Lake Wal-Mart for a night of shopping. Each child was given a gift card in the amount of $100 to buy Christmas presents for themselves or loved ones.

This year, area organizers are hoping to help even more families.

"Our police officers, along with state, county and additional area officers, will escort one or two needy children on a Christmas present shopping spree and allow them to choose toys, books and clothing," said Round Lake Park-Hainesville Chief of Police, Bruce Johnson. "The names of the children in need were given to us by Avon Township. It's our goal to make this a joyous holiday season for approximately 200 children."

Over the past ten years more than 1,200 children have benefited by 'Shop with a Cop.' Now in its ninth year, more than $120,000 has already been given to area's needy.

"We are so happy to be able to have this event benefit such a great cause," said Round Lake administrator and festival coordinator Matt McCleary.

In addition to having a great time enjoying food, games, classic cars and festive music, families attending the inaugural Round Lake Park Summer Festival should also share a smile in the thought that they are helping their neighbors this upcoming holiday season.

For more information on 'Shop with a Cop' or to make a donation, please contact the Round Lake Park-Hainesville Police Department at 847-546-5009 or checks may be mailed to 'Shop with a Cop' Charitable Fund c/o RL Park-Hainesville Police Dept., 215 E. Main Street, Round Lake Park, IL.

Village of Round Lake Park Updates

Holding the Summer Festival on Main Street this year is but one of many positive changes that are happening in the Village of Round Lake Park. One of the most noticeable changes, and especially to anyone who comes to the Village Hall, is the new addition under construction. The changes and updates will more than double the capacity of the current Village Hall, with four offices and a new Mayor's office being added, as well as a renovated customer service area complete with computers to look up ordinances and review Board Meeting minutes.

Another exciting project that is about to commence is a new public park on Greenwood Drive. The park, when completed, will feature a large gazebo for public meetings and concerts and will be encircled by the 6 Pillars of Character Counts. On the other end of the park, a picnic shelter will be constructed with an adjacent parking area for family picnics and gatherings. These two buildings will be connected with a landscaped and lighted winding walkway. We are receiving tremendous input from many volunteers and sources, but we are also looking for additional support. Park benches and customizable bricks are going to be made available to the public to commemorate family members and loved ones. Please contact the Village Hall for more information on how you can help support this family-oriented park. Finally, in response to the needs of our respected and growing business community, the Round Lake Park Board recently approved the creation of a Business Development Committee. This five-member committee is comprised of business owners and representatives from Round Lake Park. They will provide recommendations and ideas to the Board on matters ranging from business development and retention, ordinance revisions, and site review recommendations. These are just a few new and exciting programs that are underway in the Village of Round Lake Park. We encourage you to pay a visit to our Village Hall at 203 East Lake Shore Drive to learn more about the new and exciting changes happening in the Village. We thank you, and hope to see you at the Summer Festival!

Letter from the Mayor....

Dear Neighbors and Friends:

I hope that you will all be able to come to the 7th annual Village Festival. For the first time in many years, Main Street (Highway 134) will be closed to traffic on Sunday, August 22, 2004 for the festivities.

Chairman Matt McCleary and his committee have been very busy making preparations for a fun-filled day that includes many of the usual activities along with some new and different attractions. One of the biggest additions will be the Classic Car Show with literally dozens of cars on display. You may be asked to be one of the judges for the "People's Choice Award." Certainly, you won't want to miss a golden opportunity to dump Chief Johnson in the dunk tank or to chow down on a variety of foods presented by village restaurants.

I believe that most of you are aware of the fact that most of the proceeds from the day go to help finance the Annual Shop With a Cop Program sponsored by the Round Lake Park/Hainesville Police Department. So, I hope that you will come on out and help us in our efforts as well as to have a great time with your family, friends and neighbors.

See you on the 22nd,

Mayor Ila Bauer

Car Show to have something for everyone

As part of this year's Round Lake Park Summer Festival, a classic car and hotrod show has been added to provide the attendees with extra excitement. The idea of having a car show was jointly created by Ray McCarty of R&M Auto Body and Officer Don Otto of the Round Lake Park-Hainesville Police Department. All of the proceeds from the car show will go to the Shop With a Cop program. Some of the car clubs that are coming out this year to support the Festival include the Kroozer Car Club, Solitos Car Club, Mopar Car Club, Cruising Tigers GTO Club, and many others. Officer Otto was instrumental in locating trophies that will be awarded to the winners of various categories and also created dash plaques that each car owner will be given.

In all, both car owners and visitors to the Round Lake Park Summer Festival will be rewarded with a show of great cars and fantastic people.

There are still slots available if you would like to have your car, or car club, out at this year's Festival. Please call Officer Don Otto at 847-546-7275 with any questions.

The officials of the Village of Round Lake Park would like to extend their sincere gratitude to every sponsor and participant of this year's summer festival. Also, a big thanks is extended to the volunteer that helped plan and organize the event. The great success of this annual festival would not be possible without the contributions and time from so many businesses and individuals. We truly appreciate all of these efforts, and thank you.

In addition, we would also like to thank the entire team of people who are helping make the expansion of the Village Hall a reality. With each passing day, the building becomes more complete through their efforts. We thank them for all of their hard work and commitment.

Finally, and certainly not least, we extend thanks and appreciation to all of the people, businesses and organizations who help in the day-to-day operations of the Village. So many people give their time to make this village a great place to live and work. We are truly fortunate to work with all of these people and look forward to continuing these relationships.

Eight ways to get involved in your child's school

You say you don't have enough time to volunteer at school. Between working and chauffeuring the kids back and forth to soccer practice, your schedule just doesn't have room for anything else. Not true! You can make time if you really want to. It's a matter of setting priorities. Your kids will appreciate your extra effort, and you will enjoy helping out as well. Studies show that kids whose parents are involved in their education perform better academically (including having higher grades and test scores and better attendance) than children of parents who do not participate. And parent volunteers help the school too, which can turn an average school into an above-average one.

Here are some ways to get involved in your child's school, even if your time is limited:

1. Volunteer in class on a part-time basis. Every busy teacher will welcome a parent's help, even if it's only for an hour or two. If you can't commit to daytime activities in the classroom, there are things you can do outside the classroom to help out, like calling parents to remind them about an upcoming event or gathering materials for a class project. For those parents with a little more time, you can offer to be a room mother or father who helps plan class activities and parties.

2. Greet your child's teacher and develop a rapport. Your child spends six or more hours a day at school; that's why it's important to know who he spends that time with. Introduce yourself to the teacher and attend events like back-to-school night. Tell the teacher about your child's hobbies and talents, both socially and academically. By meeting the teacher and having a few discussions, you'll feel more comfortable calling him or her if you ever have any concerns about your child.

3. Prepare your child for his academic future by meeting with his teacher or counselor periodically. Discuss your child's progress and what courses he should be taking to fulfill his academic and career goals.

4. Visit your child's classroom. Being there is the only way to see what's going on. You'll observe how the teacher interacts with students and how your child interacts with peers. Just be sure to consult with the teacher a week or two before stopping by so she can plan for your visit.

5. Join a parents' organization. Parent-teacher organizations give you the opportunity to meet other parents and help raise money for the school. Also, you can play an active role in helping the school reach its goals.

6. Be informed. Keep yourself abreast of school rules and regulations, schedules, upcoming events and activities by reading the school newspaper (if they have one), your local newspaper, and the notices your child brings home. Many schools also have their own Web site full of information, so be sure to visit it often for updates.

7. Meet other parents. Befriending fellow parents will keep you informed about what's happening at your child's school and in his academic and social life. It's also a good way to compare notes about what's going on in and outside the classroom, such as if the teacher is giving too much homework or if Tommy is being a bully. Just picking your child up from a play date won't get you acquainted enough with other parents. Invite Mr. and Mrs. Smith and their daughter Jill over for dinner, or make a weekend playdate when you'll have more time to chat.

8. Share your talents with the students. Ask the teacher or the parent volunteer coordinator how you can best use your skills to benefit the students. If you work with computers, volunteer at the library's computer station. If you cook, offer to give the kids a cooking lesson or bring in one of your creations and explain how you made it. ## KIDSUCCESS open house-celebrates new classrooms

Eileen Laurence, M.D., launched KIDSUCCESS almost six years ago with three small rooms and just a few children with the goal of serving the community of Fox Lake. Programs have expanded to offer opportunities and services to 200 children ranging from six weeks to twelve years old.

"This is definitely not a babysitting service," Kathy Skender, Director of KIDS said. "This is an educational and care service."

Activities focus on new themes each week which are then incorporated into play, crafts, music, stories and other educational and enrichment tools as part of their daily activities.

In addition to the day care program for preschoolers, KIDSUCCESS offers a full-day Kindergarten program, a before and/or after school program with a homework club and a summer program. Beginning with the two-year-old room, computers are available in every room. All programs incorporate a small and large motor program, as well as rich outdoor activities.

Starting in August, KIDSUCCESS is offering a half-day preschool program. It has been developed to offer academic readiness, social skills, manners, playground sports, arts and crafts.

The motto of KIDSUCCESS is: We Prepare Children for the World. "It is our mission to prepare our children with an enriched readiness and enthusiasm for learning which will carry over to their school experience," Eileen Laurence said.

KIDSUCCESS has scheduled an open house and welcomes interested persons to telephone 847-587-KIDS/5437.

Easy ways to manage the morning routine

Permission slips to sign, backpacks to organize, lunches to make — it's no surprise that you are always running late in the morning. But getting ready for school does not have to be stressful. By maintaining a routine and doing some prep work, you can make any weekday morning flow smoothly.

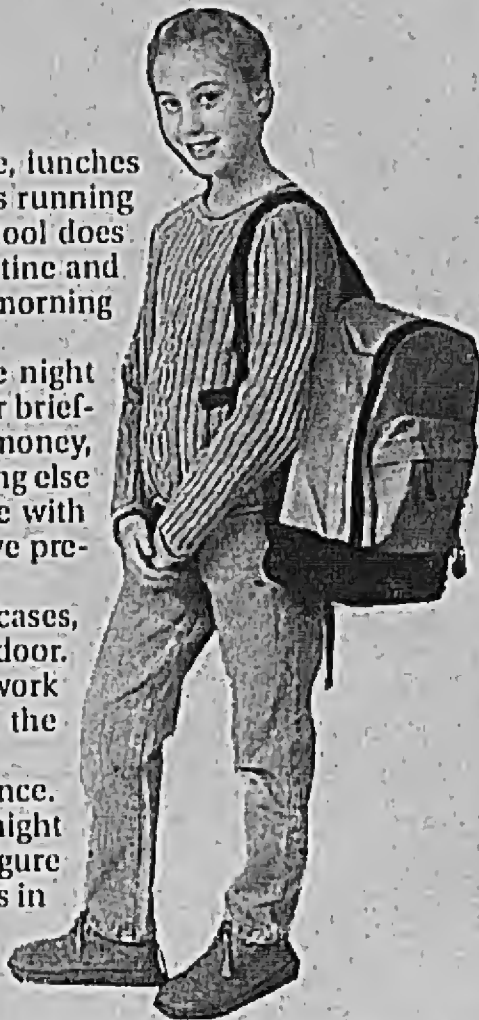

- Prepare lunches, backpacks and diaper bags the night before school. When you get home from work, get your briefcase ready for the next day, filling it with your gas money, train pass or dry cleaning to be dropped off and anything else you will need. Set the breakfast table the night before with dishes and nonperishables like cereal or bread to shave precious minutes off your morning routine.

- You and the kids should consistently stash briefcases, backpacks and keys at a designated spot near the door. Make sure all permission slips, report cards and homework are loaded into bags at night to avoid squabbles in the morning.

- It's okay to let your kids show some independence. Let them pick out their own outfits. Sure, the kids might lack some matching expertise, but eventually they'll figure it out. As a compromise, hang a week's worth of clothes in your children's closets, and let them pick outfits from your selection each morning. You can also let the kids choose their breakfast or lunch meals. Giving them some control will keep them upbeat, and in turn, ready on time.

- If you find that you often forget about the cupcakes for the class picnic or the cleats for soccer practice, invest in a big calendar. Mount it on the fridge or a wall. List events and appointments, color coding by child or activity (red for Billy and blue for Sally).

- If it seems like you never get out the door on time, tell your kids to be ready 15 minutes before you actually need to leave the house. That way, if you are running late, you will still be ahead of the game.

Get your child off to school — on time — by learning how to manage the morning mayhem.

ATTENTION

PET OWNERS
We Do Not Knowingly Accept Ads For Free/Giveaway Animals
If you must give up your beloved pet, please consider these suggestions.

*Free animal ads suggest that there is something wrong with the animal, or that it has no value.
*Some people who respond to these free animal ads are imposters and are only concerned about making a profit and not the animal's welfare.
*Charging a fee to a potential pet owner confirms the responsibility of pet ownership for an entire lifetime of that pet. For more information, please contact the Humane Society.

The Number One Reason For Leaving An Employer Is The Wrong Reason

By Scott T. Fleischmann

Written by Scott T. Fleischmann, provided by Integrity Business Solutions and can not be used without written permission

A recent study of employees who left their current employer showed that the number one reason for a new job was that they did not feel appreciated. Based on my experience, that answer is completely accurate. However, it is usually the wrong reason for leaving.

One aspect of my business is to help managers relate better to their employees. Unfortunately, most managers have never had a course or a mentor on this topic. Some seem to have a natural talent in employee relation. But most need training of some sort. Business schools do not teach these skills to any great extent.

The first problem is that a manager needs to be a champion for his or her subordinates, and most do not know how to do that. They often praise the best employees, ignore those who are doing a good job, and berate those who are least productive. All employees need attention.

Managers need to understand that their job is to accomplish tasks through others, through employees. Most were promoted because they were good at accomplishing tasks. Many of those also complained about their managers. Then they were promoted and fell into the same patterns because it was the only model they had experienced.

Those employees who put this article before their manager put their careers in great peril. Those who share the information in this article with their employer risk the same consequence. Employees need to learn how to handle those situations where employers are not meeting their needs. Therein lies our purpose.

What is an employee to do when a manager is not doing the guiding, coaching and mentoring that is needed? They are to be a part of the solution not a part of the problem. Unfortunately, some employees need our help as employees to do their jobs appropriately. Even as I write this I hear the voices of anger saying "It is not our job to mentor our managers." I agree. In addition, I would add that it is easier to leave the company than to take on that task.

However, some of us work for great companies that have great benefits. Sometimes, only one manager is inadequately performing his or her duties. We need to ask if we want to leave a good situation because of one job aspect. I believe that the best answer is "No."

When a manager ignores us, we have a responsibility to set a time to meet with him or her. We need to ask questions about our performance, job opportunities and new challenges in the work place. When a manager berates us, we need to ask how our performance can be improved, how could that task have been performed better or how would you like me to do that job in the future.

It is easier to walk away. But those who stand up to the challenges will not have the angst of a job change, and they are training themselves in how to manage in the future.

Pet OF THE WEEK

BLAKE

Described as very loving and gentle by his previous guardian, we have to agree that tender love in a black furry suit is what Blake, an eleven-year old cat, will offer to his new home. Join him in his reconnaissance expeditions, looking for small bottle rings, his favorite toys. Throw one and watch him jump and catch it mid-air. This gentleman is quite laid-back and cool, yet also very playful. Blake is front-paw declaw and had lived all his life with the same person. When she moved in with her son and daughter-in-law, the latter developed allergies and so Blake, or Blackie as she affectionately called him, came to Save-A-Pet.
